SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 10—Alibis for the nights last October on which Dr. James G. Littlefield and his wife were slain were recited today on the witness stand by former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll.

Taking the stand as the first witness in his defense against the charge that he bludgeoned and garroted the elderly physician, Carroll told his own story before a jammed courtroom in a voice so low as to be hardly audible at times.

They sat stonily while the husband and father, top sergeant in a YD company overseas, told calmly of his arrest by his own superior officer, Sheriff Fernando F. Francis, on a charge of having improper relations with his own daughter four years ago.

And they heard the defendant charge that Paul N. Dwyer, high school sweetheart of Barbara, now serving a life sentence for the doctor-killing, snarled at Carroll in Thomaston State Prison.

"You ——! I'll have you where I want you!"

Also they heard Carroll deny that just before his

Election Tally: Deal 2, Antis 1

Roosevelt supporters rolled up a smashing senatorial primary victory in Ohoi today and had triuuph within their grasp in Arkansas, but mounting returns from the Idaho election showed a third New Deal senator slipping constantly behind in his bid for renomination.

The Ohio vote assured Democratic renomination of Sen. Robert J. Bulkley who, with 7498 precincts out of 8601 reported, had tallied 428,419 votes to 176,523 for former Gov. George White. Bulkley was praised by President Roosevelt when the latter visited Marietta early last month on his way West.

Ohio Republicans, balloting in smaller numbers than the Democrats, apparently nominated Robert A. Taft, son of the late President, to run against Bulkley in November. In 7816 precincts out of 8601 Taft had 281,614 votes and Arthur H. Day, 203,487.

SEN. CARAWAY LEADS

In Arkansas Sen. Hattie Caraway, who like Bulkley received public commendation from the President, was slowly pulling ahead of her nearest opponent, Rep. John McClellan. The count for 1523 precincts of 2002 gave Caraway 76,351 and McClellar. 71,540.

Because of the President's show of preference for Senators Caraway and Bulkley the administration figured as an issue in their campaigns even though their opponents were by no means antagonistic to the White House.

In Idaho, however, the issue was clearly drawn. Senator James P. Pope, a 100 per cent Roosevelt man, was opposed in the Democratic primary by Rep. D. Worth Clark, who hammered home throughout his campaign that he was not an administration "Yes man." The vote in 512 of 802 precincts gave Clark 27,398 to 25,880 for Pope.

POPE BACKED BY DEAL

Short of an open endorsement by the President, Pope had substantial Washington backing.

The fourth primary in Nebraska was devoid of a Senate contest. Gov. R. L. Cochran easily won Democratic renomination for a third term and Charles J. Warner was the Republican choice.

Governor Martin L. Davey and Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman, ran a shifting neck-and-neck race as returns from Ohio's gubernatorial primary came in. With almost 100 precincts to go Sawyer led.

Davey then swung out in front, but further unofficial returns again put Sawyer in the lead. Reports from 8177 precincts of 8601 gave Sawyer 403,012 and Davey 400,626.

In Arkansas the race for Democratic nomination for Governor had Governor Carl E. Bailey almost 6000 votes ahead with three-fourths of all precincts reported.

Roosevelt At Warm Springs

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Aug 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt arrived here, his "second home" at 11 a. m. (Boston time) today for a two-day Georgia visit in which he will have an opportunity to discuss, if he chooses, the state's Democratic senatorial primary campaign.

The President's special train pulled in after an overnight run from Pensacola, Fla., where Roosevelt disembarked after a three-week fishing cruise.

He was greeted by officials of the Warm Springs Foundation, institute for infantile paralysis treatment and research.

Primaries

(By the Associated Press)

OHIO

ARKANSAS

Sen. Hattie Caraway, President's "Old Friend," leads Rep. John L. McClellan, who also proclaimed loyalty to Deal; Gov. Carl E. Bailey ahead for Democratic renomination.

IDAHO

NEBRASKA

Gov. R. L. Cochran wins landslide Democratic endorsement for unprecedented third term; Charles J. Warner apparent winner of Republican nomination for governor; no senator chosen this year.

Maine Pair Reach Alaska in Yacht

CORDOVA, Alaska, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stackpole Strout of Portland, Me., today were bound for Yakutat, Lituya Bay, Muir Glacier and other Southeastern Alaska ports in their 37-foot ketch en route to Seattle on a return trip home.

Harbor Victim Roxbury Woman

The body of a woman who jumped from a harbor ferryboat, today was identified by police as that of Miss Rose Eleman, 45, of Beaver street, Roxbury.

Flee Flames—Doris Berman and Nettie Melamed, two of occupants routed from homes when fire raced through three tenement houses in Balfour st., Roxbury, today. Two alarms were sounded for blaze.

Hurley Seen On Odd 'Spot'

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Governor Hurley today found himself in a peculiar political "spot" as a result of his latest legislative message for funds to relieve unemployment.

In his attempt to break the deadlock between the Legislature and himself, the Chief Executive conceded defeat of his pet bond issues which ran as high as $23,000,000 and forsook all plans he had for diversion of highway gas tax funds to the general fund so that he could show a lower state tax in this election year.

BUT—he outlined a plan for expenditure of $5,000,000 through his public works department which gives little to large cities upon whose voters he must depend for renomination.

As a matter of fact, he recommended large amounts to communities which have large Republican registrations, apparently in an effort to swap the Republican-controlled Legislature toward passage of relief that he later can claim was upon his recommendation.

FAILS IN STRATEGY

Those close to [illegible] doings observed today that [illegible] governor had "pulled" a political error while he meant the message to be a master stroke of strategy.

They couldn't figure primary strategy, however, in the governor's recommendations for expenditure of funds in Republican towns while the larger cities of Democratic trend held the voting power he will need to place himself in party nomination.

SESSION FRIDAY

On the other hand, the recommended legislation places many a Republican solon on an equally dangerous spot.

The Republican representative or senator who comes from a Republican district for which funds are recommended must vote for the Democratic governor's method or turn down his own community.

Plans for a formal session of the House Friday to consider the message were dropped today and scheduled instead was a public hearing of the House Ways and Means committee that will be held at 10:30 on that day in Room 245, State House.

BOGUS $100 BILLS TRAP MOTHER

Alleged to have attempted to pass a fake $100 bill, socially prominent Mrs. Ida R. Mitchell, 57, of Hawthorne street, Braintree, was held in $1000 today.

The accused matron, a Mayflower descendant and a member of one of the South Shore's oldest families, was arraigned in the Federal building here.

G-MEN CALLED IN

They said Mrs. Mitchell tried twice to pass a $10 U. S. treasury note, the denomination of which had been clumsily raised to $100.

In both instances, the fake bill was refused, investigating officers asserted.

G-men were first called to Quincy several weeks ago, however, when another fake $100 note, similarly raised from its true $10 denomination, was found in the receipts of the Quincy tax collector.

Origin of that fake bill was still a mystery when a clerk in Quincy loan agency notified police Mrs. Mitchell had allegedly offered him a $10 bill raised to $100.

NAMED BY CLERKS

An extra cipher had been pasted on the bill and the printed numeral "Ten" had been crossed out in ink, the clerk reported.

Later another clerk, employed by another Quincy loan agency, told an almost identical story to police, also naming Mrs. Mitchell.

Federal agents and Quincy police sought to question Mrs. Mitchell yesterday, but she allegedly refused them entry to her home.

One G-man then hid behind shrubbery, police said, and he later stepped into Mrs. Mitchell's door when she let out a pet cat.

SHE BLAMES BANK

In Mrs. Mitchell's possession was allegedly found one $10 bill which had apparently been raised to $100.

She told police she had poor eyesight and had obtained the bill from her bank, not observing anything wrong with it.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Howard W. Robbins, she pleaded not guilty to attempting to pass an altered United States currency note. Her personal recognition of the $1000 bond was accepted and hearing was continued until tomorrow.

Woman Driver Gets Jail Term

Found guilty of operating an automobile so as to endanger public lives and property, Mrs. Katherine L. MacMillan, socially prominent Back Bay matron, was sentenced today to serve two weeks in the common jail.

She appealed, and Judge John Duff of municipal court at first set bail at $500.

He subsequently reduced the bond to $100.

Police witnesses said Mrs. MacMillan's auto crashed into another car at Fairfield and Newbury streets, Back Bay, July 27.

Find 2 Lost Boys Asleep In Park

Sought for more than 12 hours by their worried parents and by Boston and state police, two Franklin boys, Joseph Goodwin, eight, and Joseph Brown, 10, were found asleep in Franklin park today.

They said they started to walk home to Franklin from Boston yesterday, after they had become separated from a Veterans of Foreign Wars excursion party which attended the Bees-Giants ball game.

"We were all right. We wouldn't have got lost.

"But it got dark and we were sleepy. So we found a quiet place in this big park we came to, and we kind of camped out for the night.

"Only trouble was we were pretty hungry."

Up from Franklin came a police auto with the father of one of the boys to get the missing youngsters.

The father said both Franklin families stayed up all night awaiting word of the lost pair.

Joe Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown, Sr., live in West street, Franklin. Joe Goodwin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goodwin, Sr., live in Cottage street, Franklin.

HELAINE COLAN

Baby's 2nd Eye At Stake

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—It was the crossroads of life and death today for four-months-old Helaine Judith Colan of Chicago as doctors probed a cancerous growth which has cost her one eye and now threatens the other.

In a few days Mrs. Colan and her husband, Dr. Herman Colan, a dentist, may be faced again with making that tragic decision; the eye, or the baby's life.

She was flown here by her mother and grandmother for observation by a nationally known specialist.

The specialist, who does not wish it generally known that he is examining the child, was reluctant to discuss the case.

Mrs. Colan and her husband, Dr. Herman Colan, a dentist, were placed in the tragic position a few months ago of deciding whether to permit the removal of their baby's eye, which meant almost certain blindness or to let her die without the operation—as doctors said she must.

The baby was afflicted with glioma of the retina which doctors said surely meant death. The doctors' "jury" was asked to make a decision and favored the operation.

Blood Disease Kills Baby Boy

His desperate fight against the universally fatal disease elicited the sympathetic offer of blood from scores of volunteers all over New England but none was found suitable for transfusion.

Medical experts consulted about the lad's chances of recovery declared leukemia was practically incurable. They even rejected blood donations as useless in overcoming the malady.

Dick was 2 years old, the son of Town Treasurer and Mrs. Edmund F. Sullivan of Norwood.

Gold Bricks Headache To Woman, Son in U. S.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—An Italian woman and her son petitioned Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for aid today to save their life savings—two gold bricks—from seizure.

Because Italy forbids taking money out of the country, Mrs. Virginia Venturelli and her son, Robert, invested their savings, $1254, in two gold bricks.

In the United States, Mrs. Venturelli attempted to cash the bricks and found her savings enmeshed in U. S. law. She said she had not declared the gold at U. S. Customs because she thought it was the same as money.

U. S. Attorney Grobe started action to seize the gold, although he said he was convinced the pair had not attempted smuggling.

2 Boys Dead In Blaze at N. H. Camp

NEWFOUND LAKE, N. H., Aug. 10—Trapped by flames which ranged through the assembly hall of Camp Mowglis, an exclusive boys' camp, Richard Hooper, 16, of Manchester, Mass., and Robert Blake, 17, of Ardmore, Penn., were burned to death today.

The two youths, members of the boys' camp staff, were asleep when the fire broke out and died despite heroic attempts of Colonel A. F. Elwell, camp director, and Robert H. Iglehart of Indianapolis, Ind., to rescue them.

More than 100 boys vacationing at the camp were led to safety. They sang campfire songs by the lakeside, not realizing that two of their leaders had lost their lives.

Of undetermined origin, the fire started near a section of the assembly hall where Hooper and Blake were sleeping. Within 20 minutes the 60-by-30 foot structure was a mass of flames.

Hooper was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hooper of Lincoln street extension, Manchester, Mass. He was their only child and was a sophomore in high school.

The deaths occurred although Camp Mowglis has a fire fighting system rated among the most modern in any camp, Iglehart said.

'Hornet' Pranks Stir Brighton

"The Green Hornet" was troubling Brighton police today, for he didn't steal anything, just ripped wash off lines, broke milk bottles, let air out of automobile tires.

So far police have collected from irate residents a dozen notes signed: "Ha—ha. The Green Hornet."

He collected 15 quarts of milk from nine homes, then placed the 15 quarts on the front porch of Mrs. Theresa Cataldo's home. He let the air out of four tires on the Cataldo automobile.

Then he passed through the block, about 2:30 a. m., ripping down all the wash lines.

Babs Divorce Assured

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 10 (INS)—The Danish government by granting the petition of Count Haugwitz von Reventlow and his American-born Countess Barbara for a marital separation, today paved the way for a divorce she expects to obtain here within a year.

Acting Minister of Justice Buhl, on the application of the estranged count and countess, ruled the separation valid under Danish law.

The ministry of justice formally recognized the legality of a private agreement, reached between the Danish nobleman and his wife in London on July 29, providing that the count shall have a share in the upbringing and education of the couple's two-year-old son, Lance.

The final curtain thus began descending on the once-glamorous romance of America's $40,000,000 five-and-ten cent store heiress.

As it did so, Countess Barbara journeyed from Paris, en route for a holiday in Italy.

At the same time there were rumors that Barbara may come back to the United States later this autumn in an attempt to regain her American citizenship.

Hitler to Quit Church

LONDON, Aug. 10 (INS)—The London Daily Herald, Laborite newspaper, claimed today in an undated dispatch that Chancellor Hitler is contemplating separation of the German Catholic church from the Vatican.

Anticipating what it calls a "spectacular coup," the Herald said Hitler is considering the possibility of creating a "German Catholic church"—Catholic in doctrine and rites but owing no allegiance to the Pope.

The paper added that the Fuehrer is "playing a role similar to that of Henry VIII of England," who broke away from the Vatican and established the Church of England.

A Japanese communique said a charge of Soviet infantry and tanks on Hill 52, near Changkufeng, was driven back and that the four-mile Siberian border front was comparatively quiet at 10 a. m. after 20 hours of Soviet shelling.

A foreign office spokesman in Tokyo said Japan was prepared to concede to Russia equal representation on a joint commission for demarcation of the border—a concession of marked importance in diplomatic efforts to settle the dispute.

Would-Be Auto Thief Cuts Self

Mysterious blood stains, found today on a Back Bay man's parked automobile, were probably left by a would-be thief who cut himself in an attempt to force the machine's ignition lock, police believed.

They were assigned to the case after the car's owner, Maxwell Savage, Jr., of Beacon street, Back Bay, reported that it had been tampered with.

Magistrate Elmer H. Miller held hearings for the pair, trapped here after a series of small robberies which, police said, netted only $1161. The charge against Mrs. Bird was one in which a liquor truck driver, Philip Parks, lost $36.

Council O. K.'s Utilities Chief, Ballot Member

The executive council at its regular meeting today confirmed the nomination by Governor Hurley of Francis P. McKeown of Springfield as chairman of the state department of public utilities.

The council also concurred in the gubernatorial appointment of Atty. Joseph A. Conway of Hull, as Republican member of the Ballot Law Commission to succeed the deceased Francis W. Estey of Malden.

He was immediately sworn into office, making way for the start tomorrow of hearings on a batch of protests filed against nomination papers of candidates entered in the September primaries.

Other appointments submitted to the council by Governor Hurley were: Mayor James F. Carens of Newburyport as special justice in that district to succeed Ernest Foss, resigned; James A. McDonough of Newton as a member of the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission, succeeding Commissioner of Public Safety Eugene M. McSweeney, and Francis L. Monahan of Wareham as justice of the peace.

The governor promoted Executive Messenger William F. Donovan to the post of assistant secretary and replaced him as messenger with Francis X. Lyons, also of Boston.

No council action was taken on the previous nominations of Dr. Paul Jakmauh of Milton as commissioner of mental diseases and former Mayor Lawrence Crowley of Brockton as probate judge in Plymouth County.

Governor Hurley failed to renominate former Mayor William E. Weeks of Everett to the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, as was generally expected. His term as chairman of the commission expired in May.

The appointment of Atty. Edward L. O'Brien of Northampton as district attorney for the northwestern district to fill the unexpired term of the late David H. Keedy, also was confirmed.

AFL To Bare Drive by Reds

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (INS)—The American Federation of Labor will report the result of its long, secret investigation of Communism in the United States before the special house committee named to inquire into unAmerican activities.

The evidence, which is expected to precipitate a national controversy, is so voluminous that three days will be required to present it to the committee.

John P. Frey, chairman of the metal trades department of A. F. of L. and a bitter foe of the CIO, will be the chief witness for the federation.

Public hearings will be opened Friday with Rep. Martin Dies, (D.) of Texas, chairman, in charge. First witnesses will be H. L. Chailleux, head of Americanization Committee of the American Legion, and Thomas Kirby, of the Disabled American War Veterans.

The committee will also produce testimony of its own, said to deal with private investigation into Nazi activities.

The federation will attempt to show:

That the recent declaration of the Communist party for the American Constitution was followed by a "boring in" of its members into many organizations previously closed to Communists.

That many midwest sit-down strikes and violent labor disturbances were planned by Communists.

That Communists are making a concerted campaign to take over the American labor movement.

The A. F. of L., it is understood, will point to the recent drive of president Homer Martin, of the United Automobile Workers Union, against alleged Communist activity as support for its charges that Communists have played a major role in the CIO.

The federation is also expected to submit evidence dealing with Communists in the CIO on the Pacific coast, where four maritime labor unions deserted Harry Bridges' labor council on the ground that it is aiding Communists.

Anti-Communists Drive on Bridges

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10—Anti-Communism leaders of Southern California CIO unions today began a drive to induce rank-and-file locals to repudiate Harry Bridges as Western CIO leader.

The rebel Los Angeles trade union conference began preparation of circulars that will be spread throughout CIO membership.

The circulars will state charges against Bridges, warn against Communist party tactics, and urge members of locals to rescind any action taken to send delegates to the coming state CIO convention in Los Angeles, called by Bridges for August 19-21.

100,000 Hail Non-Stop Doug In Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (INS)—Douglas Corrigan flew into Washington today and promptly grinned himself into the hearts of approximately 100,000 plain citizens, assorted government dignitaries and two cabinet officers.

For a city which seldom bestirs itself for anything less than a Presidential inaugural, Washington shot the works for the man who amazed atlantic flight in a $900 crate.

Corrigan, who apparently considered that daring flight a huge joke, had himself another one today when he found himself being officially welcomed by top-ranking government officials who only three weeks ago were casting the darkest of frowns in his direction.

The gentlemen included Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Commerce Roper, Denis Mulligan, chief of the bureau of air commerce, and lesser officials.

Virtually mobbed by camermen, Corrigan grinned and observed:

BARKLEY'S RECORD EDGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 10 (AP)—The 70,785-vote majority by which Senator Alben W. Barkley defeated Governor A. B. Chandler for the Democratic senatorial nomination was the largest ever piled up in a Kentucky primary.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 10 (INS)—Repair crews were at work in Middletown today following an eight-minute hurricane, accompanied by hail and rain, which uprooted more than 50 trees, put nearly 900 telephones out of order and left six inches of huge hailstones in the business section.

Quincy Beach Water Blamed For Illness

Of all the beaches whose waters were tested for bacteria count in the survey by these newspapers, waters from Hough's Neck returned the worst showing, with 8200 sewage units found in 100 cubic centimeters of the sample taken.

But other Quincy bathing beaches also made poor showings, even if not so bad.

(This is the fourth article of a series based on a survey made by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser as a public duty.)

The test of water from Wollaston Beach, one of the most heavily patronized in Greater Boston, showed 6400 units of bacteria, and the beach at Adams Shore was just on the "danger" border line with 1000 bacteria units.

Vice-President Burton G. Philbrick of the firm of Skinner & Sherman, internationally-known chemists and engineers of Boston and New York, was in charge of the water analyses, and the results are indisputable.

It is not, however, to be construed from the results of the survey that the pollution existing at the time the tests were made is to be found in the same degree every day at these beaches, or even at different tide stages of the same day.

It may be considerably less or, on the other hand, considerably greater.

Such as in the case of another survey of Quincy beaches, made yesterday, 13 days after the original survey, by a representative of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser and Dr. Richard M. Ash, health commissioner of Quincy.

These include Wollaston Beach, Hough's Neck, Squantum, Merrymount, Post Island, Black's Creek, Manet, Adams Shore and Chickatawbut beaches.

Dr. Ash himself called attention of this newspaper representative to conditions of bad pollution at these beaches and said that the sewage was coming in from Moon Island.

The flotsam, in some instances, was in streaks five feet wide, and it came in to points 25 to 300 feet from the shore line.

"Would you go in swimming here today?" the health commissioner was asked.

"I certainly would not," he replied emphatically.

"Do you consider the water at these beaches as unsafe for bathing?"

"I certainly do. It is all right some days, but on other days it is unsafe for bathing."

TRACES ILLNESS

Asked if any illnesses had been traced to bathing in polluted waters, Dr. Ash answered:

"Yes. Quincy physicians have treated many patients for various skin diseases and other ailments, including boils, carbuncles, sinuses, impetigo and even lung congestions caused by swallowing of infected water.

"There is no doubt but what those conditions should be cleared up and cleared up at once. These are all beautiful beaches, and the various outlets at Nut Island, Deer Island and Moon Island should be equipped with treating plants where the solid matter could be collected and destroyed, with the remainder chlorinated.

"If this were done, it would eliminate pollution and the beaches would be clean and safe for bathers."

At Dr. Ash's request, additional samples of water were taken yesterday from Quincy beaches under direction of Arthur D. Weston, chief sanitary engineer of the State Department of Public Health.

These will be analyzed by the state department and a report given to the Quincy health physician.

Dr. Ash disclosed that he has written to former Mayor William A. Bradford, who has worked strenuously for many years to bring about cleaning up of Quincy beaches.

Bradford, who has appeared before legislative committees this year in the matter, has been largely instrumental in bringing about appropriation of $25,000 for a special commission to plan for treating of sewage at the three principal outlets.

GARBAGE PROBLEM

The former mayor also condemns Spectacle Island and charged that no attempt is being made by Boston to destroy offal there. Recently a visit to that island was made by Bradford, and in this connection he said:

"I never thought there were so many flies in the world as there were there. Garbage is just dumped on the island and left there. The place is probably infested with rats also.

"The authorities should make an effort to secure federal funds for the treatment of sewage, the same as they have in Washington, D. C., Hartford, Conn., Bristol, R. I., and Elizabeth, N. J., and at other places.

"All of these have very fine plants and the work was well done by the WPA. What we need are treating plants similar to that at Elizabeth, one of the most modern in the country, but we will need more units than Elizabeth has.

PREVENTS POLLUTION

"In the case at Hartford, sewage, after being treated, is dumped into the Conecticut river and there are no bad effects from it.

"The Legislature should stop talking and should do something.

"To think that these God-given beaches should be so polluted! It's a shame.

"New York city got $30,000,000 from the federal government to straighten out its sewage problem. Plymouth, Weymouth and Braintree have obtained funds for that purpose."

Bradford told of a man at Hough's Neck, four of whose seven children were made ill through bathing in polluted waters there.

He also declared that James Nash, steward at the Quincy Yacht Club, had told him that even sculpins and flounders do not come into Hough's Neck waters any more.

EFFECTS OF FUMES

The investigator learned from Mrs. Albert E. Lash of 3 Bayside road, Squantum, that on several occasions two sides of her white house have turned a dirty orange hue over night.

This, she said, was due to hydrogen-sulphide deposits from sewage floating into a creek near her home.

Asked if she would go bathing there, she replied:

"I wouldn't any more think of going bathing than I would leap off my house. The condition is frightful nearly all the time."

Mrs. Mary A. Leonard of 201 Fayette street, Wollaston, told the investigator's that her son, James, 15, was camping in a tent beside Black's Creek, a bathing beach, and incurred a streptococcus infection in his left hand while collecting driftwood.

"Dr. J. Frank Belin of Quincy said the infection was due to the polluted water," said Mrs. Leonard. "He told me that if he had not treated my son when he did, if treatment had been delayed three more hours, the arm would have been gone.

Opens Drive

RELIEF from dangers of polluted waters at Quincy bathing beaches is demanded by Health Commissioner Richard M. Ash, that city, who is shown here. He says many bathers have been made ill by existing conditions.

Carroll Offers Murder Alibi

arrest he had planned to leave town, but admit that just before the arrest he had "borrowed several sums of money."

Today's was the greatest jam of spectators and would-be spectators since the trial opened August 1.

The crowd overflowed the courtroom, packed the corridors and partially blocked the stairways. Some even had been at the courthouse as early as 6 a. m., determined to gain seats.

The spectators leaned forward expectantly as the sharp-featured, barrel-chested, 43-year-old defendant strode to the witness box after his counsel, Clyde Chapman, had made his formal opening.

He appeared nervous when he first stepped on the stand and answered the preliminary questions stating among the answers that he at four years and a boy became a [illegible] January 1 1437 prior to but was a carpenter prior to [illegible] and has lived in South Paris around 15 years.

The first major denial in his testimony came when he asserted that he did not know he ex[illegible]ence of his daughter Barbara's [illegible]shame letters sent after her arrest.

Paul Dwyer claimed in his testimony that Carroll had founded him for the letters that Paul had all of Littlefield of Barbara's barge against her father made in letters and that Carroll killed the physician when the doctor [illegible] to send Carroll to prison.

"At the time Dr Littlefield was killed, had you any knowledge Dwyer had any letters from Barbara?" Carroll was asked.

"I did not," he replied, flatly.

GIVES HIS ALIBI

For his alibi for the night of October 13 when Dr. Littlefield was beaten and strangled in Dwyer's Park Hill home, Carroll said he had had no opportunity to [illegible] leave home.

He said he could not remember what he did in the forenoon [illegible] but in the afternoon he went to Waterfield returning home [illegible] and had supper.

Then he went to bed [illegible] a [illegible] in company with his wife at [illegible] before 8, went to the [illegible] office [illegible] a [illegible] paper [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Text of Today's Testimony

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 10—Following are the defense address to the jury and the testimony on the first day of the defense case at the trial of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M Carroll, charged with the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

Defense Attorney Chapman in his opening remarks to the jury said:

"Many of the state's witnesses have offered testimony which the state will contend establishes its own point. It is the defense contention that there were not two murders in South Paris and that the person who killed Dr. Littlefield killed Mrs. Littlefield.

"In support of this Mr. Carroll will take the stand. He will tell you as best he can of his activities. He will tell you that for two years prior to his becoming deputy sheriff he was a scout master working with the boy scouts in this community.

"Mr. Carroll will inform you that as best his memory serves him he had been out with one of the deputy sheriffs, returned late that afternoon, went to an American Legion supper that night with Mrs. Carroll. He will tell you that he left before the American Legion meeting that followed.

"He will tell you that he went to the sheriff's office that night. He will tell you that he did so because he knew that Mr. Verrill was not there and it was natural for him to do so.

"He will tell you that after 9 o'clock and possibly before 10 he went to the American Legion Hall and obtained his wife, Ruby.

"He will tell you that possibly around 8 o'clock he served a paper. He will tell you that after obtaining Mrs. Carroll he started home with her.

MET THE SHERIFF

"He will tell you that on his way home he was intercepted by the sheriff and told of trouble at the Farnum home. He will tell you that he went over there.

"Mr. Carroll will tell you that he was not drinking that night, that he talked to Mr Coffren, that he talked to Mr. Francis in the Farnum home.

"He then came out and went over to the Parsons house and talked to the Parsons family. He will tell you that he arrested Farnum, that Mrs. Carroll was with him and that he and Mrs. Carroll then went over to the Prings and that he and Mrs. Carroll played cards there until after midnight; that he then went home and was there the rest of the night.

WIFE TO TESTIFY

"Mrs. Carroll will take the stand and testify to that same thing.

"Mr. and Mrs. Pring will take the stand.

"Mr. Carroll will state that the next night he ate supper at his mother's, and that after supper they played cards until 10 or 11 o'clock, and that he and Mrs. Carroll then went home and went to bed."

"He will tell you that on Friday night he endeavored to reach his sister on the telephone and that being unable to reach her then he phoned early Saturday morning. He will tell you that he and other members of his family went Saturday to visit his sister in Reading and that it was then that newspaper men who had learned of what happened in North Arlington came there and insisted upon pictures, among others, of Barbara.

WORK ON DWYER CASE

"He will tell you that he pulled a gun on no one, that he never pulled a gun on any newspaper man. He will tell you that he came back and went to work on the Dwyer case. He will tell you that he went to the Dwyer home and what he found there.

"He will tell you that he found that the boy had gone to Hebron to visit his mother the afternoon of the day of the murder. He will tell you that there was some discussion about the boy's ability to say where he was every hour of every day.

"And it was then that he recalled that he was making the Farnum arrest that night.

"He will tell you that after Dwyer was in prison he received a letter—that the state now says was a trap. He will tell you of going down and talking to young Dwyer. He will tell you that he talked to him just as he would talk to any young boy, being interested in boys.

"He will tell you that the conversation that Mr. Dwyer says took place did not take place. He will tell you of the conversation that took place with Mr. Dwyer at that time and he will tell you that that conversation was not in any respect what Mr. Dwyer says.

DWYER EXTORTION PLOT

"He will tell you that he had no consciousness or realization of any enmity on the part of Dwyer towards him. He will tell you of learning of a $50,000 extortion note in 1936 written to one George Martin, manager of the mill in which he (Carroll) was employed at that time. He will tell you that Dwyer wrote that note.

"The defense will offer its witnesses to let you gentlemen of the jury judge for yourselves whether Paul Dwyer is the innocent little boy that he assumed to be on this stand.

"The defense will show Paul Dwyer's extraordinary calmness on his trip with Mrs. Littlefield. A witness here will testify to Dwyer's and Mrs. Littlefield's eating during the trip—that Mrs. Littlefield could not eat. But that Dwyer calmly sat down and ate his hamburger and drank his coffee. A police officer will testify to Paul's whole attitude."

CARROLL ON STAND

After [illegible] statement A [illegible] that called as the [illegible] Francis M Carroll.

Q—You are Francis Carroll, the respondent? A—Yes, sir.

Proposals -Barbara Carroll in attractive play suit in her Maine home last night read marriage proposals which have come in "fan mail" since her father's trial began.

Q—How old are you? A—46.

Q—What is your wife's name. A—Ruby Carroll.

Q—Of what does your family consist? A—Four girls and one boy.

Q—When did you become deputy sheriff? A—Jan. 1, 1937.

Q—Some time in spring or early summer did you purchase a cigaret lighter similar to the exhibit in this case? A—I had one given to me.

Q—From whom did you obtain the lighter? A—Sidney Verrill obtained the lighter. He bought it and gave it to me and I paid for it later.

LIGHTER DISAPPEARED

Q—How much did you use that lighter? A—I used it some and had it on the desk in the sheriff's office.

Q—Where is it now? A—I don't know.

Q—When and where did you see it last? A—The last I saw it was on a shelf on a desk in the sheriff's office.

Q—Did you attend the fair in September of 1937? A—I did.

Q—Did you see Paul Dwyer. A—Yes, sir, I did.

Q—When. A—I don't know, I saw him a half a dozen times. The only time I particularly remember was one night that he met me when I was going to my car and he had a monkey on a string and some things like that and he asked me if I would take them home and give them to my daughter Janice, and I did.

Q—I show you a side's exhibits 12, 13, 14 and 15, 17 (the letters). I ask you to glance at the letters. Also state's exhibit 15. I ask you, Mr. Carroll, when you first learned that Dwyer had the letters? A—First I knew of these letters was after I had been arrested here at the jail.

Q—Did you know about them at the fair grounds? A—No, sir, I did not.

Q—At the time Dr. Littlefield was killed had you any knowledge Mr Dwyer had any letters regarding Barbara? A—I had not.

Q—Prior to October 16 had you any such knowledge? A—No, sir.

Q—Prior to October 16 did you discuss with Dwyer any letters received by him? A—No, sir.

DENIES DWYER TALK

Q—What conversation, if any, did you ever have with Paul Dwyer? (Strike it out.)

Q—You heard Mr. Dwyer's testimony on the stand? A—I did.

Q—You heard what he testified about his conversation with you about your daughter Barbara? Did you ever have any such conversation, A—No, sir.

Q—Do you remember what you did the day of October 13th? A—I don't remember what I did in the forenoon. In the afternoon I went to Waterford, either East Waterford or Waterford Flats, and talked to some children about a fire that had occurred there. Deputy Sheriff Hunt was with me. We got back to Norway about 4:30 or quarter to 5. I am not sure what time we got back to South Paris. I got back home about 6:15 or 6:30. I went home and got my wife and we went over to the Legion hall to supper. We were late, they were practically all through eating supper when we got there. We ate supper after the rest had practically gotten through.

RETURNED HOME

Q—How long did you remain at the Legion hall? A—I left sometime before the meeting started at 8 o'clock, and came back here to the sheriff's office.

Q—Do you recall later in the evening serving a paper for the sheriff? A—I do. I served a paper in Norway.

Q—Then where did you go? A—Back to the Legion hall.

Q—Who did you see there? A—Mr and Mrs. Pring, my wife—I don't know. There was a bunch sitting around there.

Q—Was there any arrangement made where you should go from there? A—Yes. To go to the Prings to play cards. I left in my car. Coming back I met the sheriff driving out of the driveway.

Q—Who was in your car? A—Mrs. Carroll.

Q—Anyone else? A—No, sir.

LOCKED FARNUM UP

Q—Who was with the sheriff? A—I think Mr. Coffren, the night police officer. The sheriff asked me to direct him to Farnum's place. I went along. We talked to Mr. Farnum. I talked to Farnum and Coffren a while and Mrs. Coffren. We were in the house several minutes and I came out and went over and talked to Clarice Parsons (Coffren).

Q—How long did you remain there talking to Clarice Parsons? A—Farnum came out and staggered over across to the car. I took him into the car and brought him up here to the county building.

Q—In the car will you and Farnum was there anyone else? A—Mrs. Carroll.

Q—Was the sheriff at the of fice when you arrived with Farnum? A—He came in from his home next door.

Q—Mrs. Carroll get out of the car at all? A—She did. She came into the office. I locked Farnum up.

Q—What did you do next? A—I went down to the Prings.

RETRACES MOVEMENTS

Q—Where did you go? A—We went home.

Q—What did you do there? A—Went to bed.

Q—How long did you remain in bed? A—Until 7 or 7:30 the next morning.

Q—The night of October 14 where did you go? A—To my mother's on Prospect avenue. Mrs Carroll went with me.

Q—Where did you go on the 15th? A—We went to Massachusetts to see my sister in Reading.

Q—That was Saturday? A—Yes, sir.

Q—On Friday night did you do anything in connection with that? A—I tried to call her. I couldn't get her. I called her early the next morning.

BARBARA ON TRIP

Q—Who was with you on that trip? A—Mrs. Carroll, my mother, my brother Jim, and my daughter, Barbara.

Q—What route did you take? A—Through Portland and Salisbury Beach—we took the beach road right through. We had supper in Boston, drove around a bit to see the city and out to Reading. When I got out of the car at Reading my sister came out and about the same time a couple of fellows came down and wanted to know if they could talk to Barbara. I asked them if they knew Barbara. They said yes. I couldn't figure it out and they told me they were newspaper men and they said: "You know Paul Dwyer has killed a couple of people. Didn't you know it?" And I said: "It hasn't anything to do with Oxford County, has it?" They said Dwyer had killed Mr and Mrs Littlefield and could they take a picture. I said "No," and went into the house

DENIES GUN THREAT

Q—Did you have a gun? A—I did not

Q—Did you at any time threaten to shoot them? A—I did not

Q—You came back to South Paris? A—Yes, sir; we got back Sunday.

Q—That Sunday night did you do any work on the killing of Dr. Littlefield? A—I did not

Q—When did you start work on that case? A—I came down to the building Monday morning. There were state troopers around. I rode up with one of them. I rode down to the house. Sheriff Francis came out of the house with Paul and several others and I rode down to the sheriff's office with them. Paul wanted to talk. He said he didn't want to talk officially. He wanted to talk man to man. He said he wanted to explain about a dope ring.

"DWYER WROTE STATEMENT"

Q—What do you mean dope ring? A—He said there was a dope ring.

Q—What did you do next? A—We went back to the Dwyer house then we got to talking around and the sheriff advised Dwyer to tell the truth and Dwyer sat down and wrote out another statement [illegible] I told [illegible] statement [illegible] identified.

Q—Prior to that time had you been alone with Dwyer at any time? A—I had not

Q—What did you do next? A—I was engaged in bringing in various persons for questioning

Q—What next did you do? A—I went to Hebron with Sheriff Francis and County Attorney Smith, or maybe it was a state trooper. We saw Mrs. Dwyer and Mrs. Sears, Mrs. Dwyer's mother.

TELLS OF PAUL'S VISIT

Q—What information did you learn in reference to Paul's purpose in going to Hebron Wednesday afternoon? A—We learned he was there with two other fellows with him. Mrs. Sears had a lunch for them and they took it with them. They wouldn't stop for supper that night

Q—Did you learn what Mrs. Sears said relative to Paul's presence that afternoon? Objection by state.

Q—What next did you do? A—We questioned various ones over the Paris Hill and we went over again to Hebron to where Mrs. Sears was living

Q—Did you have conversation in the jail with Paul Dwyer? A—I had one conversation with him near the drunks' cell

Q—You were alone with Mr Dwyer at that time? A—I was

Q—At that time had there been anything said to you about the cigarette lighter? A—No, sir

Q—When was that first called to your attention? A—I think the first time was here in this courtroom

Q—At any time were you in charge of Dwyer? A—I was not

Q—Do you recall guarding Mr Dwyer A—I do

Q—Was any one with you? A—No

Q—What duties were assigned you by the sheriff during the trial? A—To keep quiet in the courtroom when I was upstairs and to keep people from coming up when it was crowded when I was downstairs, also to bring I various exhibits during the trial

LETTER FROM DWYER

Q—After Mr. Dwyer was at the prison did you receive a letter from Mr. Dwyer? A—Yes, sir. I brought it here and showed it to Verrill and Rupert Aldrich and to the sheriff. As a result of the letter I went down to Thomaston. I went alone. I talked to the warden.

Q—Did you talk to Dwyer? A—I did.

Q—Before or after you talked to the warden? A—Before. I saw the guard when I first got there. I asked him if I could see Dwyer. He wanted to know who I was and I told him. He said, "As long as you are a deputy sheriff you can see him over at the other table yourself." I told him I didn't care whether I saw him alone or not. I waited ten minutes and they brought Dwyer in. We sat talking for several minutes and Deputy Warden McGowan came in and said, "What the hell is going on here? Your orders are not to allow anyone to talk to the prisoners." He said go downstairs.

"HOW'S BARBARA?"

Q—Did you have any conversation with Dwyer at all? A—I said "What's your story, Paul?" He said, "How's Barbara?" He said, "How's my case?" I said "O.K." He said, "Did you come down alone?" I said, "What do you want of me? Do you want to tell the same story. In South Paris they don't take much stock in it." That was just about the time the deputy warden came in. I tried to talk to him later in the day but he wouldn't talk. I had Warden Welch and Deputy Warden McGowan with me. I asked him if he wanted to sit down and have a talk with me by ourselves. He said, "I don't want to talk with you. Get out!" The warden said, "He's come all the way down here to talk with you. Do you want to go here in the library and talk?" Paul said, "I don't want to talk. Get out!" After that I came home.

Q—In the course of your investigation did you learn that Mr. Dwyer went to Hebron to see his mother there on the afternoon of Oct. 3. A—Yes, sir, I learned that he did.

Q—Did you learn whether he went to Hebron alone? A—I learned that he didn't. There were two boys with him.

TALK WITH VERRILL

It was in this connection that Carroll testified that he and Dep. Sheriff Verrill got into a discussion as to whether they themselves would be able to account for their own movements if they were Dwyer's predicament.

"I said to Verrill, 'Do you know where you were?' and he said, 'No, I don't,'" Carroll testified.

"He said, 'You know where you were?' And I said, 'No, I guess I don't.'

"Later he said to me that he had gone visiting with his wife that night—that he had talked to her and that she had reminded him of it. And I said, 'Then if you were away I must have been at the jail.'"

Carroll testified to another occasion on which he saw Dwyer at the prison. He went down with Deputy Sheriff Verrill, he said, and when he saw there Dwyer said to Verrill "What the hell is hedoing here? I thought I told you to come alone."

TELLS DWYER'S THREAT

Carroll continued: "He said something about my having taken Barbara down to Massachusetts to have an abortion performed. I told him I had heard that story before he was tried. I told him I had had Barbara examined and she was all right.

"He said: 'Get out of here.'"

"I said, 'I am not taking orders from you, Paul.'

"He said, 'You ——! I'll have you where I want you!'"

Q—You were later arrested? A—I was.

Q—On what charge? A—Incest.

Q—Prior to that time had you had any relations with the New York Daily News? A—Yes, sir. They printed a story. I was very much distressed. I decided, however, to wait until after the state's case

Q—You caused your daughter to sign a paper—what was that paper? A—It was authority to proceed against the New York Daily News.

Q—Well, you returned to South Paris and what happened? A—I came back to South Paris and went into the sheriff's office and the sheriff asked me to come into the cell blocks, and I did. And we sat down in some chairs and he said, "They've opened up the Dwyer case and I've got something to do I don't like to." I said, "What?" He said, "I have got a warrant for you for incest."

"WITH YOUR DAUGHTER"

I said, "Who?" he said, "Your daughter Barbara. Something that happened when she was 13 years old." I said, "What has that to do with the Dwyer case?" He said, "Nothing to do with the Dwyer case." I said, "Have you got another warrant for me?" He said, "Not yet."

I said "am I entitled to get bail" and he said I certainly was. Later I was told I wasn't entitled to get bail; that there was going to be a murder charge against me

[illegible] a couple of [illegible] were [illegible] A—Sheriff Francis who was [illegible] that [illegible] I had been [illegible]

Q—Who was the complainant in this incest warrant? A—Sheriff Francis

Q—What dealings have you had with him since you have been in jail? A—Socially I haven't talked to him but he has treated me fine. I have talked to him a couple of times about various papers that I handled while I was a deputy

IDENTIFIES HIS GUN

Q—Relative to the gun you carried as an officer, do you know where it was the night of Oct. 11th? A—I don't know whether it was in my car or not. If it wasn't in my car it should have been in the drawer in the sheriff's desk

Q—I show you state's exhibit 35. Is this the gun. A—Yes

[illegible] that he had [illegible] gun, he said [illegible] [illegible] Hotel. What [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

times, haven't you? A—I think twice

Q—And you borrowed a gun from a [redacted] named West and used it yourself? A—Yes.

Q—Where did you get your own gun? A—I borrowed it from my brother

Q—You borrowed a gun from West and gave it to the sheriff and you borrowed a gun from your brother and used it yourself? A—Yes, sir

Q—You took your mother to Boston with you on that trip? A—Yes, sir

Q—It didn't have anything to do with your engagement to meet Paul Dwyer at the Statler there, did it? A—I never had any such engagement.

Q—You say the first you heard of the murder was when newspaper reporters met you at Reading? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You were around Boston all that morning and didn't see any newspapers or hear any newsboys shouting, "Murder in South Paris" or anything like that, [redacted] you? A—No, sir.

"HEARD ABOUT LETTERS"

Q—Do you know that papers were on the street with the news of that murder at 10:45 that morning? A—I did not

Q—You say you served a paper on Oct. 13th? A—Yes, sir

Q—You worked for the South Paris Manufacturing Co. for some time? A—Yes

Q—You knew Mr Martin the manager, very well? A—I did.

Q—Do you mean to say to the jury that the first time you knew of the letters written to Paul by Barbara was after you were arrested? A—I said these letters.

Q—You knew of other letters? A—I heard about them in Reading

Q—You went up to the Dwyer house? A—That night?

Q—You went up there? A—Yes, sir

Q—The night of the killing you didn't have any opportunity to go up there did you? A—I did not

Q—Mrs Carroll was with you, was she? A—She was.

Q—You didn't ride up there with Farnum, did you? A—I did not

Q—You say that Mrs. Carroll was with you when you took Farnum to jail? A—She was.

Q—Did you afterwards remind the sheriff that the night of the Littlefield killing was the night he was in Augusta? A—I did.

Q—Did you have discussion with other deputies about where you were that night? A—Yes, sir.

LIKE GUN HE LENT

Q—This gun, just introduced, is that the gun you loaned the sheriff? A—I couldn't swear to it. I've forgotten the number on that gun. It's just like it.

Q—Oh, come, now, don't you know that this is the gun? A—I believe it is, but I couldn't swear to it

Q—How old a man did you say you were? A—4?

Q—Is there anybody in South Paris who knew you went to state prison that day you got the first letter from Dwyer? A—Yes, sir: Verrill, Aldrich and the sheriff

Q—You didn't just show them the letter? A—No, sir

Q—After you heard of the Littlefield killings when you were in Massachusetts did you telephone the sheriff? A—I did not.

Q—Didn't you communicate with any officer? A—I did not

Q—You didn't turn a hand until you came back Sunday night? A—I did not

Q—You have said that "Paul wanted to talk to the sheriff and to me about the dope ring story." A—That's the story the sheriff told me

Q—And when you went to State Prison did you talk to Paul about this dope ring story? A—Yes, sir.

TALKED TO PAUL

Q—You and Paul have talked quite a lot about this dope ring.

Q—You have it in your own mind that Paul needed any help to accomplish what was done up there on the hill. A—I've never been satisfied with the way this case has been developed.

Q—I didn't ask you that. (Question is repeated.) A—I thought that he didn't do it alone, yes, sir.

Q—Did you receive any instructions from the court not to talk to Paul Dwyer without his attorneys being present? A—I don't remember.

Q—Did you talk to Paul Dwyer in his cell? A—Yes.

Q—Where were you standing when Paul Dwyer pleaded guilty in this courtroom? A—I don't remember

HEARD COURT ORDER

Q—How many times did you talk to Paul Dwyer in his cell? A—Once. He asked me to talk to him

Q—Was it that afternoon? A—It may have been

Q—You remember Sidney Verrill finding you in his cell? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Didn't Sidney Verrill remind you of the court's order no one was to talk to Dwyer? A—I had heard that from the sheriff

Q—You had heard that already from the sheriff? A—Yes, sir

Q—The sheriff had told you it was the court's order no one was to talk with Dwyer in his cell and then Sidney Verrill finds you talking to Dwyer alone in his cell? A—I had not understood that that applied to us deputies

Cross-examination was resumed after recess Prosecutor Ingalls questioning.

KNEW BARBARA INVOLVED

Q—Did you at any time tell Dwyer to keep Barbara's name out of this? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You had the knowledge that your own daughter was involved? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you harbor any resentment against Dwyer? A—I had the natural feeling of a man whose daughter becomes involved in such a case.

Q—You knew that Dwyer had had relations with your daughter? A—I did not.

Q—Implications were clear, were they not? A—I drew no implications.

Q—You hit the Kenny boy in the jail? A—I did

Q—Did you hit Paul Dwyer? A—I did not.

WIPED NO STAINS

Q—One of the earliest things you did was to go to Lowell to see Curtis Brooks, was it not? A—No, sir.

Q—You didn't go? A—No, sir

Q—Did Mrs. Carroll go? A—Yes, sir.

Q—How many times were you in the Dwyer house before official inspection was made there? A—I went up there Monday morning with Sheriff Francis

Q—Did you wipe any stains off or remove any evidence? A—No sir.

Q—Did you talk these letters over with Barbara? A—I talked some about them, yes.

Q—You felt pretty mad at Dwyer about them, didn't you? A—Yes, sir.

Q—When Dwyer was in state's prison weren't you told that he had named you in this? A—I was told by Sheriff Francis, I think it was the next day after Paul went to prison—I don't remember how he worded it—he had made one statement about me and my family being mixed up in the killing of Dr. Littlefield

Q—And then you got a letter from Dwyer? A—Yes.

Q—What did he say in that letter—the man you disliked?. A—He asked me to come down thmere and talk to him and he made some statement about after all he had done for me and Barbara he wanted me to come down and talk to him.

NOT BEING "UGLY"

Q—And you went down there and you talked to this man for whom you had no love whatsoever, and there were words about your daughter, Barbara, having an abortion and he wound up by calling you a ——, is that it? A—I agreed to help him any way I could if he would tell me the truth

Q—On the occasion told by Sheriff Francis yesterday you were found talking to Paul, were you being ugly then, Francis? A—I was not.

Q—You were calm. A—I was. Q—Did you discuss with Barbara the discussion you had with Dwyer about the abortion" I did not

TOOK HER TO DOCTOR

Q—Did Sheriff Francis tell you that if you didn't have Barbara examined he would. A—I told him I didn't know what the idea was having Barba examined—she wasn't mixed up in this. I took her down to the doctor and he said we'd better wait till Sunday.

Q—The sheriff had to tell you repeatedly didn't he? A—No, sir. Only the once that I recall.

Q—Well, just what in the world was it, Carroll, that prompted you after all the harm this boy had done your family to go down there to Thomaston prison? A—Well, I'll tell you. The day we took Paul to the insane asylum I told Paul I'd like to know the truth about what happened in the bathroom. He said probably no one would ever know that, but if the time ever came when he decided to tell anyone he would tell me or Verrill. "If the time ever comes," he said, "I'll let you know," and I thought that maybe he had been down there long enough to have made up his mind.

"HE'S NOT STRONG ENOUGH"

Q—Quat why do you think there was someone else in that bathroom that night? A—He simply didn't strike me as strong enough to have done it all by himself

Q—Did you know then there never was any motive for Paul to kill Dr. Littlefield? A—I never could figure any

Q—Now, you know, Francis, that he never had the strength to kill him, don't you? A—No, I don't know that, I wouldn't say that

"You saw him here on the estand" A—Yes, he looked a lot better then than he did here.

ADMITS CUFFING BOY

Q—You think he could kill Dr Littlefield? A—Yes, I think he could

Q—How about that Kenny boy? You cuffed him? A—Yes, sir

Q—Well, you cuffed a couple of black eyes onto him, didn't you? A—No, sir

Q—There was a mark on his face? A—A small red mark, yes, sir

Q—As I understand it you brought some sort of civil suit against the New York News A—I left it with an attorney. I don't know whether the suit was actually brought or not The last I heard of it he told me it had been turned over to a law concern in New York, and they didn't want to take it on the basis we had planned. They want money forwarded to them before they would go any further and he didn't know whether they had been bought out or not

REMEMBERS ONE VISIT

Q—You don't know whether you have a suit pendin now or not? A—I understand it has been dropped

Q—Now, when you saw your daughter's name involved as it was, when Dwyer was returned from New Jersey and before, didn't it make you pretty eager to talk to Dwyer in his cell? A—It did not

Q—You were not concerned as her father? A—No, sir, just as a deputy sheriff

Q—How long do you ans it was before you went into his cell and talked to him" A—I don't remember, I think the first time—the only time—that I remember being in his cell was after he was on trial up here in court

Q—After he went to the state prison, you were still of the opinion that he couldn't have done it alone? A—I don't know, it looked funny to me

MADE NO INVESTIGATION

Q—Do you think the boy could have lifted 150 pounds in that trunk? A—I don't know

Q—Feeling the way you did, why didn't you pursue an investigation into all this? A—I knew that Lieutenant Shephard of the state police had investigated and if he didn't find anything I didn't see how I would find anything out.

Q—Did you tell Sheriff Francis you were pretty sure Dwyer must have had outside help.' A—I wasn't pretty sure.

'Racket Busters' Film Praised by Police

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—"Every American believing in law enforcement should see 'Racket Busters.'"

Such was the declaration today by Police Chief Davis, in referring to "Racket Busters," a motion picture scheduled to be released by Warner Brothers.

Any constructive motion picture, such as 'Racket Busters,' showing the problems confronting authorities in dealing with crime, is of great help," Chief Davis declared, adding:

"This picture will give the American citizenry a new insight into our problems and of the difficulty with which we protect life and property.

"There are those who are prone to criticize law enforcement personnel—until they suddenly find themselves needing protection.

"'Racket Busters' will show them our side of the picture and, I am sure, instill greater confidence in all branches of law enforcement agencies.

"I am indeed pleased with 'Racket Busters,' for it offers 100 per cent entertainment value and, at the same time, shows what we're up against.

"'Racket Busters' clearly depicts everyday problems, not only of law enforcers, but of business men preyed upon by ruthless racketeers.

"Public opinion is the greatest force in the world and I feel certain it will mount against racketeering and move toward sympathy with those seeking to stamp out crime in America, after the nation has been given an opportunity to view this really great picture.

Cagney Film At RKO Boston

James Cagney, in "Something to Sing About," and "Daredevil Drivers," co-starring Beverly Roberts and Dick Purcell, make up the two-feature program starting tomorrow at the air-conditioned RKO Boston Theater.

Sparkling satire on Hollywood "Something to Sing About" is a back-stage view of the movie capital set to music and is notable inasmuch as it introduces the red-headed dynamo for the first time in a singing-dancing role. The supporting cast includes Evelyn Daw, William Frawley, Mona Barrie, Richard Tucker and Johnny Arthur.

"Daredevil Drivers" is the story of a bitter rivalry existing between two bus companies, one of them headed by a girl, Beverly Roberts, and the other by Gordon Oliver. It builds to fast thrills on land and mobile stunts to heighten the high-speed action. Others in the cast are Gloria Blondell, Charley Foy, and Dan Dailey.

Irving Berlin Song-Hit Film For the Met

Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band" will have its New England premier tomorrow at the Metropolitan Theater. The associate feature to be shown on the same program is the new Jane Withers picture, "Keep Smiling," with Gloria Stuart, Henry Wilcoxon, Helen Westley and Jed Prouty also featured in the cast.

The spectacular "Alexander's Ragtime Band" is described as an American comedy that begins in 1911 and comes down through the years set to the reminiscent airs of Irving Berlin's melodies, chief among which was the song hit from which came the title of the picture. Twentieth Century-Fox, the producers, have chosen a star-laden cast that features such well known favorites as Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche supported by Ethel Merman, Jack Haley, Jean Hersholt, Helen Westley, John Carradine, Paul Hurst, Wally Vernon, Ruth Terry, Fredie Carlos and Chick Chandler.

The story of the picture centers around Alexander, played by Tyrone Power, and his band, which he developed on the Barbary Coast. With the band are Don Ameche, a song writer, and Alice Faye, a featured songstress. Love smolders, flares, cools down, up and is rekindled again with the melodies of Berlin as a gentle accompaniment the while most of the action takes place in hectic environment scenes in San Francisco, New York's Greenwich Village, a New York theater, a London theater and Carnegie Hall.

Besides 20 of the old favorites such as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "All Alone," "Say It With Music," "Easter Parade," and numerous others there are two brand new Berlin hits, "Now It Can Be Told" and "My Walking Stick," Harry Ruby, who created "The Cohens and Kellys," was in charge of production.

The story of "Keep Smiling" deals with the picture and often heartbreaking adventures of a hero-struck girl who goes to Hollywood to visit her uncle whom she has never seen. Finding him dead, penniless and deserted by his friends, and unable to get a job, she sets about to paint up Pa's career and wages of by making one for herself in the movies. Harry Lachman directed for Twentieth Century-Fox.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—I reckon Hal Wallis knows a couple of good men when he sees them, and so he has taken up the options of James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, as movie scenarists.

In case this doesn't make much sense, the news is that, following the assignment of Jim and Pat to play screwball scenarists in "Hey Meets Girl," they continue as mad cap movie writers in Hal Wallis' "An original story by Mark Hellinger and Earl Baldwin."

NURSING ALONG THE REVIVAL

THE RECENT nationwide improvement in business [illegible] and I be sedulously cultivated. Increased activity based on a sound economic foundation [illegible] should be shunned.

There is no room for pessimism and gloom, despite the assertions of the more devastating [illegible] Roosevelt Administration [illegible] hostile to economic progress are in the public record, and should be remembered.

In the meantime, prosperity must be encouraged in every way.

Here [illegible] monetary stimulants such as increasing the gold reserve, reduction of reserve requirements of banks, the liberalization of [illegible] and lend effort may help [illegible] to secure permanent prosperity [illegible] by [illegible].

LAST NIGHT [illegible] VIEWS [illegible] from a [illegible] from a [illegible] effort to [illegible] prosperity [illegible] depression [illegible].

There will be permanent expansion, and productive prosperity if, in conjunction with the monetary stimulants, the causes for ruinous deflation are [illegible] removed.

It should be apparent to all that we can't have prosperity while attempting to pillory the prosperity makers, the owners of business and industry.

We can't have prosperity while bleeding white both producer and consumer with confiscatory and the consuming public through excessive and [illegible] taxation.

We can't have [illegible] wages and high standards of living and consequent prosperity while Secretary Hull and [illegible] have broad discretionary power to [illegible] the tariff protection against competitive products from sweatshop countries [illegible].

We can't have lasting prosperity until the unsound and dangerous Wagner Act is revised so that it will not [illegible] responsibility for labor unions as well as [illegible] and insure peace and production in industry.

We can have prosperity while the railroads are permitted to drift into insolvency and while politicians make unreasonable attacks on the public utility industries.

THE GREATEST NEED of the hour is collaboration by leaders of industry, agriculture, labor, government to promote harmonious and helpful relations which will permit the creation of wealth in the United States and its [illegible] distribution in wages and dividends.

Effective expansion will be expressed in [illegible] and [illegible] for employment of American workers.

Once the [illegible] maladjustments growing out of [illegible] and wasteful spending are removed, the prosperity we have spurned and all we want to new standards of peace will [illegible].

The new promises of America can well prove [illegible] if [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] and prosperity are [illegible].

Such massive expansion will be reflected in [illegible] homes and in a resumption of [illegible] in [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] new [illegible] standards of [illegible].

"These United States"

It will be a cavalcade of our history from the inauguration of George Washington to the present time.

An American produced the best cavalcade of English history, and this American cavalcade should be the GREATEST picture ever made.

It should be the MAJOR TEXT-BOOK of our people for many years to come.

It should be the story of American democracy IN ACTION - the greatest and most successful political and social experiment in HUMAN FREEDOM ever undertaken by man.

LET US HOPE that this great opportunity will not be spoiled by the efforts of Hollywood's many cheap Communist producers to inject [illegible] propaganda for Stalinism.

[illegible] no "dead [illegible]."

We [illegible] DICTATORSHIP of any nation or people [illegible].

We [illegible] DEMOCRACY [illegible].

We [illegible] and [illegible] of Old Glory.

"THESE UNITED STATES" should AFFIRMATIVELY and POSITIVELY show the visiting world that the fast and [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] while this film will subscribe [illegible] to [illegible] government of the people, for the people and by the people [illegible] shall not perish from the earth, but shall continue to GO FORWARD guided by THE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE OF THE FOUNDING FATHERS without a shadow of [illegible] European tyrannies and slaveries.

THE MARIHUANA EVIL is everybody's problem, not [illegible]. That is the wise advice of H. L. Anslinger, [illegible] Commissioner of Narcotics. He says:

Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10

IT IS [illegible] one of the tragic ironies of politics that Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri now completes the [illegible] of Bill Shakespeare, who said [illegible] by his own petard.

This writer was in the press box of the Democratic convention of 1912 when Woodrow Wilson, having [illegible] to become the resistless legatee, himself prevented the great Democrat, Speaker, Champ Clark from obtaining the necessary two-thirds after he had gained and had held a majority of the delegates.

By these [illegible] Wilson barred Clark, the Democratic nominee of the Presidency, and gave it to Woodrow Wilson, [illegible].

Twenty-four years later [illegible] Champ Clark, now [illegible] and [illegible] Senator from Missouri, [illegible] a [illegible] convention [illegible].

He begged the Senator whose eyes were filled with tears not to [illegible] the [illegible] of going to the platform and leading the fight for the abrogation of the [illegible] rule.

"My mother is listening on the radio," replied the Senator, "and I am going through with it."

* * *

AND THEN he told his sad news. The widow of Champ Clark was living at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jeremy Thomson, in New Orleans. He wanted her to hear him destroy the rule which had prevented her husband from being President of the United States.

* * *

BENNETT CLARK was renominated in Missouri the other day by a vote of such magnitude as to make him a national figure, a contender beyond doubt for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

If the two-thirds rule were still in force there would be no third-term question haunting the minds of Democrats today. Mr. Roosevelt could not muster two-thirds. Probably he would be unable to obtain a third nomination by a majority vote, if that were his [illegible].

With Roosevelt blocked, Senator Clark would be in a commanding position. What may undo him is the very majority rule he caused to be adopted.

Verily, the Whirligig of Time brings in its revenges.

Heat Haters Leap From Pot Into Fire

By DAMON RUNYON

[illegible]

WELL, a great many visitors [illegible] have long been spending our summers on Manhattan Island and [illegible] guarding the secrets of its advantages as a summer resort not only from outsiders, but from many of the natives. We have been [illegible] successful.

For years we have successfully [illegible] the refugees from Manhattan and [illegible] them [illegible] the natives by fostering the [illegible] that the Island in Summer is practically an inferno. Thus we kept the premises pretty much to ourselves.

We taught many of the natives that when the thermometer registered 90 or [illegible] it was scarcely safe and they would rush off to the seashore and to country places in [illegible] and to lodges up in the Catskills and the Adirondacks and remain away until [illegible] for the first [illegible] of Manhattan were patrons of the deep. They actually carried stories about how persons fainted [illegible] in the streets like [illegible] and were carted off to the hospitals and labelled prostrations.

Damon Runyon

If the points [illegible] to mention that some of these persons had been [illegible] in their eating or drinking or [illegible] to wear cabbage leaves in their hats, we do not recall it definitely in newspaper [illegible]. There was no definite conspiracy about the matter, no connivance of the editors of the public [illegible] in putting their assistance in chasing people out of town.

The editors were just smart enough to realize the Summer comfort of uncrowded streets and restaurants and [illegible] in printing pictures of folks sleeping on the grass in the parks and on fire-escapes it was not legally necessary for the editors to mention that this is swell sleeping in Summer.

If their readers gathered from the pictures that the suffering on Manhattan from the heat was pretty awful, that was not the fault of the editors, though we must say that we have felt that their vague mumblings about something called humidity savored at times of sharp practice.

However it is only fair to the editors to say that they never said much about how dry and [illegible] it was, and [illegible] a little [illegible] about having the [illegible] spot on earth. Those [illegible] have been [illegible] to [illegible] how [illegible] we [illegible] the editors are entitled to the [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible].

NOW IT SEEMS that [illegible] recently the best [illegible] of the visitors and the residents and [illegible] began to [illegible] that prevails on Manhattan Island and they commenced flocking back in droves to discover us stay-homers sitting around in ease and comfort in an Arctic atmosphere and the air was cool in the [illegible].

Some of the returned exiles were pretty sore at our plot to keep them among the clam shells and the ants and the sunburn and the hot beds all these years. In fact several of them got so mad they wanted to fight. They said they would never believe anything they read in the public prints again, but we wish to reassure the editors. We did not tip off their part in the scheme.

IT MAY BE retribution for our selfishness that our secret has been discovered, but the return of the natives has certainly ruined what remains of the Summer for us, because they refuse to return to the seashore and the mountains. Manhattan Island is [illegible] as crowded as it was last Spring or Fall. We were about to include Winter, but of course many Manhattan Islanders go away in Winter to find the warm weather that causes them to go away in Summer.

IF YOU'RE one of those tremulous young hopefuls anxious for a radio career, Jack Wright, WHZ production man, has some sane advice to offer about auditions.

Marguerite Downey

First and most important commandment is to make your own contacts. Don't expect clippings, pictures or letters from prominent people to put you across. You will be judged by your singing, notes not by your written notes.

And don't bring in an armful of music. Concentrate on one song and let it go at that. But above all don't select the hit tune of the day. No matter how refreshing your arrangement or how smooth the performance the audition board does get a bit weary of hearing the same ditty.

Also don't select a tune that's little known, or one written by a relative. That's bound to be deadly. Even "big names" are afraid to do that. Pick a well-loved song and one that you know how to do, be it swing or classic.

To avoid "mike" nervousness, think only of one person listening. The rest of that reputed million are partly absent anyhow. But don't hoodwink yourself into believing that the "mike" minimizes your defects. Your only as good as your weakest note.

If you think you've another Temple in your household, don't allow her to sing sophisticated songs. Nothing disgusts a board more than children prattle about things a tot doesn't understand.

Oh yes, if you fail, try again. There's nothing like wearing down people's resistance.

TRAGIC, BUT TRUE! It's too late now to do anything about hay fever. The season of sneezes and sniffles is just around the corner and those of New England's thousands of sufferers who didn't think about it months ago will wish they had.

Actually, hay fever does not come from hay and it wasn't a fever. It begins in most severe phase about mid-August. For at that time the pollen from ragweed is everywhere in the air.

So there is only one thing to do. GO AWAY. Visit the White Mountains or take a sea voyage to Bermuda. In other words get away from the pollen-infested atmosphere.

Of course, if you had followed your doctor's advice you would have had injections months ago, long before your particular type of hay fever began to make your life miserable.

HOLLYWOOD: Although I am one who never did sympathize with the lament that what the country needed was a good 5-cent cigar, certainly until the other day I did not realize there was even a more poignant lament. Now it appears what this country needs is good five to seven-reel Western plots. Mr. George O'Brien, who currently is what Mr. William S. Hart and Mr. Broncho Bill were, solemnly assured me there was a dearth of good Western stories, and Mr. Dave Howard, who directs Mr. George O'Brien in sagas of the plains, and the press seconded in agreement.

LOOKING about for evil to convince myself there were no spying producers within eavesdrop, I inquired naively enough, "What is a good Western story?" and Mr. O'Brien replied, gently "Any story at all, no matter what it is. All you do is put it on a horse—and you have a Western."

SHAMEFULLY, I admit I have never seen Mr. George O'Brien in his popular Westerns although I understand they go great guns in many sections of the country, but I did learn that Mr. O'Brien adheres to the stream-lined trend and such expressions as "Pardner," "Ma'am," "Schoolmarm," "Galoot," "I Reckon" and "Varmint" are strictly taboo, in Mr. O'Brien's opinion, of the cowpuncher era.

ARTIST HENRY CLIVE called to unite me at the request of Rupert Hughes, to be the guest of honor at the Authors' Club luncheon. I did not accept, pleading a prior engagement—and while that was strictly the essence of truth nevertheless I make full confession here that the prior commitment was not the real reason. I should like to tell the real reason as a warning to others who may be invited to be the honor guest of the Authors' Club—which is not to be confused with the Author's League. Rupert Hughes heads the Authors' Club. Irvin Cobb is a dominant member. There are several dozen other erudite gentlemen and artistic gentlemen in the group. When you attend, you sit at the place of honor and you have an excellent lunch. Then Mr. Hughes calls upon let us say, Mr. Cobb. Mr. Cobb, noted for his droll humor, will speak for from 15 to 30 minutes, telling funny anecdotes, pointing out the smartest of witticisms.

MR. HUGHES will pause for a second. He will rub his hands gently and, like the guileless-eyed schoolboy with fingers tugging at a fly's wings, Mr. Hughes will, with a note almost of defiance, call upon the honor guest. The honor guest will not see several dozen pairs of friendly eyes and friendly ears. He will see gleaming bayonets and machine gun nests. He will be expected to be even more clever and wittier than Mr. Cobb and Mr. Hughes. He is not the President of the United States, so he may not read from a prepared script. He must stand upon his two feet, face his audience and speak, speak well and brightly. It was with pleasure therefore that I remembered a prior engagement at which the only obligation was to drink as well as the next man.

Norris' Demand by Hugh S. Johnson

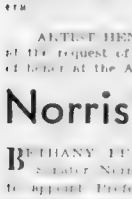
BETHANY BEACH, Del. United Press says Senator Norris has just urged the President to appoint Professor Felix Frankfurter to the Supreme Court in the vacancy left by Mr. Justice Cardozo. "Urged" is a meager word for the language quoted in the dispatch. "He proposes chance to name the Professor to our highest court the Senator calls 'an opportunity to perform one of the greatest services ever performed for the American people' an opportunity that seldom comes more than once in a lifetime."



General Johnson

These be tall words. They could well be spoken of nobody less than a Daniel come to judgment, some towering luminous national figure astride our world like a Colossus. Such is not Professor Felix. So we look to the text for further light. "There is no man now in the public eye who so fully and truly represents the philosophy of government of Justice Holmes and his successor, Justice Cardozo, as does Frankfurter. (!!!) He was the confidential friend and adviser of these two great justices. He has always been the admirer and partisan of these two great men."

All that is certainly to the credit of the Professor. But there are few of any lawyers, especially young lawyers, who do not indulge both of these distinguished patriots. That therefore standing alone is no such distinction as warrants the saying that the appointment of Frankfurter would be "one of the greatest services ever performed for the American people."

IT IS NOT EASY to write on this subject. Frankfurter is as learned in the law as any man in this country. He is exceedingly brilliant and able. He has one of our coolest clearest clearest minds. But it is far to old still whether it has a judicial mind.

If it is, it is a miracle because as a political courtier, Mr. Frankfurter is certainly one of the most astute and subtle influences that ever worked behind the scenes in this or any other time or place. Does anybody ever possess both a judicial mind and that capacity?

The Professor is a persona a regular Rochelieu but in this present sweeping away of old governmental forms, would it be "one of the greatest services ever performed for the American people" to take him away from Harvard?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Written in warmest tribute to Superior Court Judge Roy B. Mabry of California . . . with the fervent wish "that he were a boy", quintuplets.

THINGS were dead! Nothing to do but eat and sleep . . . nowhere to go but more eating and sleeping. What kinda life was that for Two-Ton Tara?

Elsie Robinson

Once upon a time a Regular Bengal Tiger could have a lot of fun be a pirate or a highwayman or even the rustler maybe. But now? Nothing doing. Can't get you down, livin' like that! But they weren't licked yet! Jess gave 'em time and they'd show these Ole Fatheads that there was some pep left who wasn't senile!

And so for eight long months Mister and Missus Tara, 17; James Henniger, 17 and Baby Grace Ie pondered some plan whereby they might prove their red-blooded courage and Show Themselves Time. And as the whole world now knows, Tara settled matters by appropriating to $6000 your Tira, owned by Lew Foote, and selling him in the most approved piratical manner.

The ensuing hue and cry made history and the front page. Followed dizzy days when frantic parents and furious officials sought to solve the fate of three Precious Little Darlings or Precious Little Brats, according to taste. Until finally came news that the Tira had put in, for supplies, at Puerta Vallarta Mexico, with its Young Hearties still sitting pretty and found for nearby. Whereupon the long-suffering Mr. Foote flew southward, bestowed an entirely unsolicited forgiveness and returned with the complacent Tara.

At which point according to our best American traditions and precedent, Our Heroes should have been greeted with screen kisses, screen tests and talkie contracts. But to practically everyone's amazement, someone had a seizure of old-fashioned common sense. And SO—OO—OOO—

STARS denote a passage of time. Extremely trying time for restless young males who crave variety. Gobs and gobs of uninterrupted leisure to Think Things Over with each Think proving more of a headache than it's predecessor. And there we were, our Boys Boys but oh! Alas or the morning after. To the contrary they stand before the bar facing the stern, steely eye of Superior Judge Roy B. Mabry listening aghast as he utters the following incredible judgment:

"I SENTENCE YOU TO SPEND THE YEARS FROM NOW UNTIL YOU ARE 21 IN PRESTON REFORMATORY."

Gulps . . . gasps . . . Blithers! A complete collapse of the tin-canning clan . . . a wholesale wail of the hot-canning kind! Then upon the shocked, immersed eye of silence the judicial voice takes on one more—

"But I hereby suspend sentence on the following provisions: That you go to church or Sunday School every Sunday; that you learn the Ten Commandments; that you refrain from smoking or the use of alcohol, including beer; and write a theme on these points."

"AND THAT YOU REMEMBER THAT YOU ARE NOT HEROES BUT THIEVES."

And there, say I, is an act that deserves at least a dozen Congressional medals!

IT'S EASY to see why modern youngsters show such scant enterprise. Young life, in this machine age has become dangerously denatured. There's too little risk, too little challenge in our streamlined, over-padded lives. Kids want Out. And it's up to us, their elders, to help them achieve Out—in the right way.

Cupid Following Prospects About

By BETTY ALDEN

THE number of mid-summer weddings in progress at the seasons do not influence Dame Cupid's business . . . Whatever the weather conditions he packs his bags and follows the prospects from one summer resort to another.

Next week's most important marriages gave both the North and South Shore societies an excuse to spread . . . Mary Spaulding's, at Manchester, on the 18th, will attract all the members of the very wide Coleman clan, of which she will become a member when she exchanges marriage vows with Elliot Coleman, son of Mrs. Oliver Tanner.

Two days later an equally fashionable group will witness the marriage of Clarice Delany and Oscar Schloss, Jr. at Manchester-by-the-Sea . . . Bride's father is a prominent Boston physician and her future father-in-law a noted New York modern's specialist.

Lottie's wedding day, Aug. 20th, is also the day chosen for a marriage which will unite two prominent New York families, Bakers and the Prossers. They are the marriage of Irma Prosser and David S. Baker, Jr. which will take place in Round Hill Church, Greenwich, to be followed by a reception at the Belle Haven Beach Club.

Many of the younger Bostonians will journey down to Greenwich for this occasion and Miss James Henry Brewster, 3rd, of Cambridge, will be one of the bevy of bridesmaids . . . John Paul Curtin and Blair Cleveland will also represent the Hub in the festivities . . . Ethel and David are both twins and will have their "doubles" in the bridal party, as maid of honor and best man respectively.

In spite of her reputation as the life of the party, and the North Shore's most fashionable sailing addict, Elsie Lilly is not content to bask in the reflected glory of these frivolous attainments . . . She devotes many summer hours to painting and perfecting the artistic talent inherited from her mother, Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett.

Elsie mixes her paints and wields the brush in her step-father's picturesque studio situated on a bend in the Beverly road, at the entrance to their beautiful estate, White Hall. You may have noticed its attractive gray exterior, with windows outlined in yellow and white, and tall trees making a striking pattern across the front.

Jane Lee has succeeded to the title of "Madame Chairman" during the summer months, for she is head of the entertainment committee at the Manchester Beach Club, where, under her direction, there is something doing every minute.

When "Life Begins" For Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

"When we were little mother was just about perfect. She did everything for us and we had the jolliest kind of a home. Now that we're grown up she thinks she need never have been a good time. She came to our college proms, dressed the whole evening with her daughter and the friends of other girls.

"She's pretty, slender and attractive but I feel her better when she wasn't a young. She's been a widow for two years and our family doctor would like to marry her. I saw him kiss her. When I told her I thought it was vulgar for a woman of 45 to act she scolded me, and cried.

"We were all home for the holiday time of her life and when it would come to a head I don't know. I'd like to make the best of it. She'd thought it out, what can we do to give my mother a real good time of mid-course? Thank you for your help.

"We are afraid she had spent her youth washing diapers, scrubbing baby bottles steaming spinach and wheeling a perambulator and had she wasn't going to settle down and be a wife instead now that she is free. But to have your mother go on [illegible]

"CRITICAL."

Mother seems to have done a pretty good job with you children and I think it would be unfair for you to see her point of view. She isn't engaged in home-work now and she's putting aside all her usual duties that 'life begins' to end for mature women.

Gadget Makes Curls In Five Seconds

By ARLINE GOULD

SHOOT YOUR HEAD full of curls with less effort than it takes to do a back-flip off the beach club float . . . for there's a new curling gadget that absolutely forbids any more 'beach hair' this summer, or any other

And by 'beach hair' we mean the soaked-out permanent which hangs in kinks straight down main or otherwise attractive gal's back . . . You've seen 'em. An attempt at angel roll or smoothly contoured wave over the forehead and at the temples . . . and from then on a pair out and out mess!

With this brand new gadget you can make the slickest of undercover rolls or sculptured affairs at the top or sides of the head, or swing of ringlets to hang around your shoulders or to pile on top of your head.

In order to use this business you don't have to retire from public life while the rest of the gang suns its backs on the hot sands. Dash right there and there or step into the locker and be out again in a jiffy.

For the gals who are going in swimming these days without a cap, and who don't want to look as though a bunch of seaweed had landed on the head . . . a few curls on the ends, held invisibly in place by the bobber pins that go with this outfit will solve everything gracefully.

You see a "presto matic" arrangement in the gadget slides a well-concealed bobber pin into place to hold each end curl out. You then go about your business of drying and curling all the while you do something else.

It's very inexpensive and simple to use than a crochet hook. Just tuck the strands of hair in a curl and let the gadget do the rest of the work.

If you'd like to know where this automatic hair curler which fastens each curl invisibly and without effort may be found in a Boston shop, phone Arline Gould LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5 or write her, at the Boston American enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Denny Surrenders To 'Czar' Martin

CHAPTER 9

(Endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission as a PUBLIC SERVICE Story and Picture, a Cosmopolitan Production released by Warner Bros. and opening tomorrow at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters)

As Nora Denny Jordan asked when he wearily combed the stairs to his apartment was rest and a lot of it. Nora was safe now and nothing else mattered. Markets, trucks, racketeers and payoffs could go to the devil for him. He would sleep until noon next day, and by then maybe the sun would be shining.

As he opened the door of the little apartment he realized it had not been locked and a light in the living room was shining. He walked down the hall cautiously and encountered Joe, the faithful bodyguard of Martin, and Denny's fists clenched. This then was another fight — and he was tired of battle.

Boston After Dark

By JACK CONWAY

Tom Yawkey, youthful millionaire owner of the Red Sox, would have liked to have done something big for Mickey Cochrane when the Bridgewater favorite lost his job with the Tigers, but he felt that, if he asked his pal to join the Red Sox, it might be construed as a knock at Joe Cronin . . . Yawkey believes Cronin has done a swell job at managing the Sox and would not wish to create a situation that might in any way be considered detrimental to Joe.

JACK CONWAY

Cronin is under contract to manage the Sox through 1938 . . . At $25,000 a year . . . As a ball player, Cronin would easily be worth $15,000 a year of any club's money . . . It looks as if the Yankees have the American League pennant wrapped up again . . . The Sox have a chance to beat out Cleveland for second place if they can get flashes of good pitching . . . The club certainly has hitting power.

Russ Murray and Dan Carroll were among the Boston sports fans who dropped into New York today to see the Henry Armstrong-Lou Ambers lightweight title battle . . . Murray will hurry back to Boston after the bout to complete arrangements for his running horse meeting that opens at the Marshfield Fair next Monday afternoon.

Mayor Maurice J. Tobin got as much kick out of Boston's greeting to sparkling Douglas Corrigan as did the young aviator.

Raccoon Takes the Sun

When I stepped out on my piazza at Scituate, I found a raccoon rolling around in the sun . . . It looked over at me as if to say "Good Morning," and then did a few special stunts for my benefit . . .

I later found the raccoon was the property of a neighbor who brought three raccoons, a snake, two rare turtles and some tropical birds from the Florida Everglades last Spring . . . One of the raccoons is still quite wild but the one that came visiting is as playful as a kitten . . . The owner of my visitor took the animal in her arms and placed its paws on my shoulders . . . The raccoon then dozed off to sleep . . . It had broken its cage and escaped during the night, but was, apparently, happy [illegible] me.

Steve Casey Sails Today

Al McCoy and his bride of four and a half months, were visitors at the office . . . Mrs. McCoy blushingly denied the report she is expecting a visit from the stork . . . Mrs. McCoy says she is keeping a scrap book with all of the clippings about Al's bouts . . . McCoy recently defeated Harry Thomas in Montreal and will meet Buddy Knox, of Chicago, in his next major ring effort . . .

Steve Casey, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, sails for Ireland today, and will defend his title against Dan O'Mahony in Dublin on August 22 . . . McCoy was informed by Yvon Robert, in Montreal, that the former wrestling champion is going to get married and that he will honeymoon in France . . . It is likely that while abroad Robert will wrestle O'Mahony and Henri DeGlane in Paris.

Another Cup for the Hollands

If you were to drop in at the South Shore home of George Holland, he could serve you a drink of champagne in a silver cup provided, of course, you supplied the champagne . . . Jane Holland, George's 14-year-old daughter, won a silver cup when her boat was first in the papoose class at the Quincy regatta . . . Mrs. Holland and George are very proud over their daughter's victory . . .

John Roosevelt is still disappointed because Attorney General Paul Dever refused to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor . . . Roosevelt believes that, with the split in the Democratic ranks, Dever could have gained the nomination and won at the fall election . . . The original plan was to have Dever for governor with Roosevelt for lieutenant governor with New Deal backing . . . It is the ambition of James Roosevelt to some day be governor of Massachusetts and to later serve in the United States Senate.

Handicaps Revealed By Writing

We all have many assets and handicaps some more than others of course, but they never seem to balance. Some have more assets and advantages than others and [illegible] handicaps to overcome, [illegible] successful.

James Roosevelt's 5-Year Income

returned earnings in the last five years were less than the minimum estimated for one year in the weekly magazine article that appeared July 2.

The actual declared income of the President's oldest son was disclosed to this newspaper in refutation of the charge that he received enormous insurance commissions.

During 1933, immediately after his father's election to the nation's chief post, young Roosevelt's Massachusetts declaration from all sources including insurance fees, radio and writings amounted to $21,000.

He had just turned 26 two years before, following his graduation from Harvard at which time he had also established himself in partnership with John Sargent, an Adams and Boylston insurance broker. The firm's first name was Insurance Agents, Inc., incorporated under the laws of Maine.

The 1931 period was his most momentous year. In this formative period he attended Boston University's law school, and was married to Miss Betsy Cushing, daughter of the Boston brain specialist Dr. Harvey Cushing.

His income leaped in 1934 to $40,000, according to Massachusetts declarations, largest to date and still unbeaten by any of the amounts mentioned in the Saturday Evening Post. The name of Insurance Agents, Inc., was allowed to lapse in December of that year and a partnership of Roosevelt and Sargent, organized under Massachusetts law, was formed on March 5 of the following spring.

SLUMP TO $35,000

In 1935 James Roosevelt paid taxes on income and state inheritance tax department on $35,000, approximately a total of $4,500 and a sharp drop from his previous returns. His interest in Washington affairs was a waning as affairs was taking more and more of the time of the President, the frequent

Revision Hinted In Wagner Act

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—Through the grapevine comes the report that even the members of the National Labor Relations Board themselves are aroused to the need of some revision of the Wagner Act.

When an effort was made to check the accuracy of the reference from a speech on the trend said:

"If, at any time in the future, the question comes before the Congress, the board will of course feel free to express its views thoroughly and frankly."

Apparently none but a congressman has the right to ask these bureaucrats for their views.

It was made clear to me that J. Warren Madden, the man would rather not the time for his views for reference to the record said.

Despite the urgency of requests coming Mr. Madden's associates, one of the board's most vigorous of the Wagner Act that look amendments to be largely for clarification and strengthening of the measure rather than for the purpose of meeting the opposition by hostile critics of the act.

WAGNER'S VIEWS

In the fullest discussion of the board which appears in their annual report, Chairman Madden and Members Edwin S. Smith and Donald Wakefield Smith recommended:

"Thus it will be seen that most of the proposals for the amendment of the National Labor Relations Act, and most of the criticisms of it, are based upon misinformation about both the English and the American law or emanate from those well known sources who are desirous of muddying the whole situation in order to defeat the aims of the act and to secure legislation which will strip labor of its rights and again unbalance the bargaining power between the employer and his worker.

"In my judgment the area now opened for exploration is not in legislation but in the form and content of the labor contract. Let employer and employes, freely bargaining, experiment with a variety of methods of attaining their common objective.

"Then, as time and experience prove the need, I shall be among the first to welcome perfections in the law. Today this need has not been indicated."

BRITISH BASIS SEARS

"The great need today is for the achievement of industrial democracy in American life. The pathway toward that accomplishment has been marked clearly by the Congress and the Supreme Court. Let that path be followed, and the nation will be the gainer."

In other words Senator Wagner's interdictory of a few years back has become the new orthodoxy.

To attempt to make a one sided law more equitable in a belated effort to fix it in the face of the new power.

There can be no amendment of the new sacred cow despite the plentiful factual evidence that it has in practice proved an instrument of industrial strife and trouble rather than a measure toward peace.

The impression that the Wagner act was above discussion was cast when the White House discovered that the mission of Labor Board members which the President sent to study labor legislation in Great Britain and Sweden was connected with proposed revisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

Nevertheless, Pleasant Lake well, it is understood that the attitude toward this subject is having that public opinion concerning it is evolving. A logical expectation is that we shall move toward the British basis of regulating the unions as well as the employers.

Sharp Upturn In Small Home Building Seen

More than half a billion dollars of such home mortgages were expected to appear on the books of the Federal Housing Administration during the next year, an increase of more than 44 per cent over the $350,000,000 of the previous year.

During the $500,000,000 home mortgage insurance program of the FHA, officials estimated the total mortgage debt would be increased by $1,000,000,000.

In July there were 6,000 applications for FHA mortgages, a 20 per cent increase over the $5,000,000 in July, 1937.

FHA officials also said part of the increase would be for improvement and business building projects. Approval for 337 industrial projects for $2,000,000 was estimated for the year ending June 30. Actual expenditures for the year totaled $1,000,000.

The agency has in new projects, of which FHA insurance will be required on $11,500,000.

Improvement to increase rental values was expected to be the largest in the first time in the new federal act. After repaying the $1,000,000 appropriated to start and augmented $750,000 from revolving fund of the agency, $500,000 short of the same period last year.

Savings Banks Assets Probed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Securities Commission experts have begun the spade-work for the trial trust investigation of $12,000,000,000 assets of the nation's mutual savings banks.

In some respects the study probably will parallel the commission's inquiries of the $30,000,000,000 assets of insurance companies and the report of this type initiated at request of the upper House last year.

The latter phase of the survey was authorized by Congress to determine whether investment of enormous assets entailed monopolistic practices.

Pending up the savings banks inquiry is the last year when $8,000,000,000 or more per cent of the such assets were held in New York state and about 90 per cent in the New York Massachusetts Connecticut Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Flowers to the Living; Credit to Tom Yawkey

THE MORE ONE PONDERS ON WALTER O. BRIGGS' intolerance toward Mickey Cochrane's first failure as manager of the Detroit baseball business, the more one marvels at the humanity and mercy which Tom Yawkey has displayed toward his collapsible Red Sox. For Tom, in his six years as Red Sox owner, has squandered $4,000,000, give or take a few thousands either way, with nary a whimper over the pennants he did not win or the world series dividends he did not share. Tom took out his revenue in springtime optimism and the cheerful anticipations of the Boston people and when fortune failed each autumn, he did not chop off Joe Cronin's or Eddie Collins' noggins before going south for a winter's fun. He took his share of the blame for each flop and didn't pass any bucks to his employes.

AUSTIN LAKE

But Briggs is the hereditary proprietor at Detroit in the fact of 1935 when Frank Navin died of a heart overtaxed with happiness at having won a world title from Chicago's Cubs. It was the thing most dear to Navin's heart and the thing most lethal to the same organ.

I still recall how old Frank had sat in the press room after Goose Goslin's victory single had turned Detroit into a clotted mob of frantic maniacs who pressed down auto sirens, mounted taxi tops, harassed horse cops and turned the business district into one vast writhing howl. Old Frank's full moon face wore a rosy approximate glow as he stood with one hand on Cochrane's shoulder and the other holding a tall frosted glass filled with an amber liquid forbidden by his doctors. And he had gulped the stimulant while saying "This is the happiest moment of my life."

* * *

When Mike Was Detroit's Darling

DETROIT HAD NEVER BEFORE WON A world's championship until Mike won this one and in the downtown areas windows of the city's sky-towers spewed the contents of loose leaf files and waste-paper confetti till the air was clogged with floating fragments borne on the updrafts of the hot, exhalations of breath from the marching thousands in the streets below.

That was October of 1935. Five weeks later Old Frank died and Walter Briggs stepped into the presidency. Three years later he fired Cochrane. "For the good of the club," though until this summer his club had never registered lower than second place in the league standing. "In answer to the popular demand" said Mr. Briggs. And that may be. For I have never seen a people so carried away by the tides of their emotions as the people of Detroit, to whom victory is something normal and defeat a civic calamity which calls for crepe draperies on the public buildings and mass garbage throwings at the rival athletes as a manifestation of the people's grief.

These Are the People

DETROIT IS DISTINCTLY HICK-TOWN in its baseball reaction and until one has seen the inmates at Navin field whooping it up, one has never seen a malignant case of baseball fever, which is something like the dancing sickness in which the patients whirl and leap until they collapse from exhaustion and are swept out by sanitary crews lest they expire and mortify beneath the grillwork and concrete but tresses of the grandstand.

These are the people, who, in disappointment over 3 kings, would hit you with a meat cleaver if they have hatchets in their hands. And these are the people who threw that historic tantrum during the seventh game of the last series when St. Louis was making by 7 to 0 and were [illegible] than the pennant winning and kill the objects of [illegible]

So these are the people, too, to whom Walter O. Briggs tossed Mickey as the Romans once tossed early Christians to the lions. He couldn't fire the ball club which had begged down, the pitching which had gone sour and the hitting that had turned harmless. So he fired Mickey with no more compunction than if he were a hot-dog vendor who insisted on serving his customers with his mustard smeared thumb in the roll. He fired him in midseason with vague explanations that brought sinister little rumors, flying whisperings that Mike had a fist fight with Hank Greenberg underneath the stands; stories that Briggs took his cue from detectives hired to spy on Mike's road methods. Thus, for the sake of accuracy I wired inquiry today of Harry Salsinger, the veteran Detroit ball writer whose reputation for truth and fair representation is noted in his guild. "No fistfights and no detectives" flashed back "Sal."

[illegible] Thomas Alvin Yawkey the Red Sox [illegible] the conviction and temperance to hang on to a great [illegible] in the face of years of disappointment and after [illegible] was to lose a fair minded boss like Old [illegible] a [illegible] peaky one like Walter Briggs [illegible] may have a mild sensible and forbearing owner like Tom.

Conway Picks Armstrong Over Ambers

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis gives lightweight champion Lou Ambers some last minute advice before latter enters ring with feather and welter champion Henry Armstrong at Polo Grounds tonight.

Two Titles Up Tonight

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion tipped the scales at exactly 135 pounds, the lightweight limit, while Henry Armstrong, his opponent in tonight's 15-round battle at the Polo Grounds, scaled 133½ when they weighed in at noon today at the offices of the athletic commission.

Apparently worried about his ability to make the weight, Ambers appeared at the commission a half hour before time and hurried to the basement with his trainer for a trial weigh in. He appeared much relieved when the beam balanced at 135.

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—It is expected that Henry Armstrong will fleece another of his brilliant ring battles to win the world lightweight championship from Lou Ambers in a 15-round bout at the Polo Grounds tonight.

Armstrong rates a 7 to 5 favorite and [illegible] any opinion that he will [illegible] the [illegible] aggressive [illegible] boxer in the [illegible] ring history.

Armstrong is the fastest and most relentless boxer in the world, and figures to keep swarming over Ambers until he has piled up enough points to gain him the victory.

HOLDS TWO TITLES

If there is a knockout tonight, Armstrong will be the one to score it. The most Ambers can hope for is to win on points.

If Armstrong comes in to expectations and leaves the ring a winner, he will be a triple world champion. He already holds the featherweight and welterweight titles.

Despite the ridiculous ruling of the New York Athletic Commission that Ambers cannot win Armstrong's welterweight title tonight, Lou will be double champion if he beats the Negro sensation.

As Ambers will be under the lightweight limit of 135 pounds, the welterweight title must change hands at the class limit is 147 pounds.

Henry Armstrong

Edward Foster, secretary of the National Boxing Association, has already stated that Armstrong can put his welterweight crown in a safe deposit box when he steps into the ring tonight.

Armstrong's featherweight title will not be in the title pot as Ambers will make [illegible] at 126 pounds.

STAKING GATE

Ambers has the backing of powerful New York political interests, and is certain of at least a fair break on the matter of officials.

The fight will, at top, is not expected to draw more than $ [illegible]. The advance sale is only $ [illegible].

The fact Armstrong looks like almost a sure thing, and the terrific heat in New York for the past ten days has taken away interest from the bout.

There is a night baseball game on Brooklyn and that attraction will play to another record crowd. Add to those matters [illegible] at Saratoga and Goshen, and you can understand why Mike [illegible] has a rather severe head[illegible]

B. Y. C. Takes Over Race Week Burgee

By CAPTAIN CUTWATER

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 10—The burgee of the Boston Yacht Club was hoisted to the masthead of the committee boat today as Marblehead's annual Race Week reached the half way mark.

Fleets to date have run only about 35 boats less than last year's record totals, a remarkable record in view of conditions.

If the Boston today and the Corinthian the rest of the week have their traditional luck with the weather, there will be no question about the permanence of this ancient sailing fixture.

VISITING BOATS WIN

Visiting boats took more than their share of trophies as the Eastern Y. C. series came to an end. There was the Star Class for instance, where the Jay was brought here by Stanley Ogilvy to sweep the series against Nahant, Boston and Rockport boats.

The Long Island Sound racer was dropped to a second place in yesterday's contest, it is true, but only by another of the invaders, John Abberly's Rhythm from Great Long Island Sound.

In the Town Class, Marblehead's division of the Winnabouts in which some of the Boston boats are sailing, the Berna II passed to the MacDonald brothers of Swampscott, took the trophy largely as the best efforts of the Hadleys.

Newburyport Interests [illegible] ing against Boston [illegible] have enjoyed little luck to date and Jim Bancey in Wasp had little difficulty in proving himself the best drifters in the class.

NANCY LEITER WINS

First places don't necessarily mean anything in the current scramble. Take the Herreshoff class, aristocrats of the big boat division. Nancy Leiter of the Boston Yacht Club, sailing the Venture, won the Eastern silverware on points without getting the winners gun on a single occasion. She never dropped out of the money, though.

Three classes the Winnabouts, the Winthrop Hustlers and the Radios—failed to finish within yesterday's time limit and were to repeat their races this morning. The fleet could still do with a good whole sail breeze.

Vitagliano, Volpe Foes At Dilboy

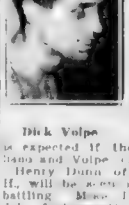
Paddy Devine of Cambridge will be back in action in the heavyweight class in the weekly outdoor amateur boxing show tonight under the auspices of the Dilboy Post, V. F. W., at Dilboy Field, Somerville.

Heavyweights are expected to provide the major thumping under the glare and moon tonight in the five class show with other boxing in the 118, 126, 135 and 147 pound divisions.

Matt Sullivan, South Boston, John Creegan, Providence, Cobb Hackett, Fall River and Nick Harrington are other heavyweights who will be out to stop the home attack.

Horace Libette, Manchester, N. H., Guy Vitagliano, Medford, Champion Dick Volpe, Wakefield, and Zeke DiTomasso East Boston will be on hand for the 118s.



Dick Volpe

Henry Dunn of Manchester, N. H., will be seen in the 126 pound battling Mike DiNardi, Boston. Dale features the 135's with Joe Higginbottam, Haverhill a new comer, expected to give him trouble.

Thomson's Drives to Spice Golf Fund

Recognized As Game's Tee King

By BILL GRIMES

Jimmy Thomson, who will team with Lawson Little, next Horton Smith and Harry Cooper two weeks from next Sunday at the Belmont Country Club for the Boston Evening American Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund, is recognized as the surest hitter in golf.

Despite the tremendous distances he gets off the tee and through the grass, Thomson is not a slugger. He's a swinger.

His timing is perfect and his rhythm so smooth that few of even the closest students of the game have ever been able to fathom where he gets his distance.

GALLERY THRILLER

Until he came here two years ago to play for the Boston Evening American Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund, Thomson had never shown in this section. However, his reputation as a long hitter had preceded his appearance.

Thousands of golf fans were out to the Belmont Country Club to see just how he'd fare.

Taunton Tips

By MATTHEW KEANEY

BEST BET—PEINA—TENTH

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

Five Half Daily Double

TRANSPORTER, COMP. ON DUK, JUST BRUME

| P. P. | Dog | Wt. | Owner | Odds |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Transporter | 66 | W. L. Bryant | 3-1 |
| 2 | Come On Duk | 60 | Art Wilson | 6-1 |
| 3 | Just Brumel | 55 | A. L. Smart | 5-1 |
| 4 | Indian Bonnie | 53 | Pat Conway | 5-1 |
| 5 | Idle Money | 60 | Ben Neal, Jr. | 6-1 |
| 6 | Pepper Bell | 61 | Tom Baird | 6-1 |
| 7 | Bobbie Glen | 55 | Frank Lane | 8-1 |
| 8 | Flash Chord | 62 | Dan Sullivan | 8-1 |

TRANSPORTER was hit last out, but from this box figures much better. Barring the unforeseen, he should get to the top and win handily. COMP. ON DUK could take it, with JUST BRUME dangerous.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

Second Half Daily Double

WISWALL, KID EVANS, JOE COTTON

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Wiswall | 63 | Cedar Pt. Ken. | 4-1 |
| 2 | Kid Evans | 64 | M. J. Dufore | 4-1 |
| 3 | Joe Cotton | 60 | O. R. Wolhaupf | 5-1 |
| 4 | Miss Ruth F. | 58 | M. J. Lavan | 5-1 |
| 5 | Pat Colleen | 60 | Fred Fiorino | 6-1 |
| 6 | Continuous Lewd | 68 | Dan Sullivan | 6-1 |
| 7 | Dewaere | 67 | O. Dahlberg | 8-1 |
| 8 | Butch's Best | 67 | O. & B. Kennel | 8-1 |

WISWALL has the edge here with the inside box and should take good advantage of it. KID EVANS might be dangerous. JOE COTTON, whose figures to take an early lead probably will stop.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE

LIQUID RED, SIR WINDSOR, LOST LAMB

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Liquid Red | 63 | Cedar Pt. Ken. | 3-1 |
| 2 | Sir Windsor | 63 | W. L. Bryant | 4-1 |
| 3 | Lost Lamb | 56 | G. Tippold, Jr. | 5-1 |
| 4 | Bad Offer | 67 | M. Berberich | 5-1 |
| 5 | Fire | 51 | A. L. Smart | 6-1 |
| 6 | Merlish | 67 | P. B. Stotz | 8-1 |
| 7 | Joe De Mag | 64 | O. Dahlberg | 8-1 |
| 8 | Major | 58 | Paul Rooney | 8-1 |

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

STORMY BREEZE, DUSTY DAN, FLIGHT LEADER

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Stormy Breeze | 53 | G. Tippold, Jr. | 3-1 |
| 2 | Dusty Dan | 54 | O. Dahlberg | 4-1 |
| 3 | Flight Leader | 64 | O. R. Wolhaupf | 4-1 |
| 4 | Jim Glenn | 63 | J. Nighbower | 5-1 |
| 5 | Upstart | 58 | Paul Rooney | 6-1 |
| 6 | Girl Grace | 60 | J. [illegible] | 6-1 |
| 7 | Tex. Sidewinder | 66 | M. J. Dufore | 8-1 |
| 8 | White Cross | 56 | O. & B. Kennel | 8-1 |

STORMY BREEZE drops way down here and should be able to outfinish this pack. DUSTY DAN has a fine turn of speed and may make it a race. FLIGHT LEADER is long overdue.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE

RAZ, JUST A BIRD II, SPACE

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Ras | 58 | H. [illegible] | 4-1 |
| 2 | Just A Bird II | 59 | O. R. Kerr | 4-1 |
| 3 | Space | 66 | J. L. Smith | 5-1 |
| 4 | My Derby | 58 | J. Nighbower | 6-1 |
| 5 | Daffy Doll | 57 | P. B. Stotz | 8-1 |
| 6 | Hawke's Choice | 58 | A. Sylvestrini | 8-1 |
| 7 | Bit Taffie | 57 | J. F. Reagan | 8-1 |
| 8 | Pretty Patricia | 58 | Art Wilson | 8-1 |

RAZ has sufficient speed to steal a nice lead here and hold it to the end. JUST A BIRD II should run one of its good races and lead the rest. SPACE is a thread despite a bad box.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

LATTO HARP, ELSAC, THE TANGLER

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Latto Harp | 59 | Burbe Spencer | 4-1 |
| 2 | Elsac | 55 | A. L. Smart | 4-1 |
| 3 | The Tangler | 58 | M. J. Gavan | 5-1 |
| 4 | My Nugget | 62 | J. L. Goulet | 6-1 |
| 5 | Miss Bailey | 56 | O. & B. Kennel | 6-1 |
| 6 | Cemetery Doctor | 66 | W. B. Hall | 8-1 |
| 7 | Jane's Ladder | 60 | Homer Bagwell | 8-1 |
| 8 | Irish Lass | 54 | Frank Lane | 8-1 |

LATTO HARP has been improving and with the red blanket aboard should get out here for a safe lead. ELSAC has early speed and can go the route a dangerous combination. THE TANGLER should be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

KIMO, NIGGER DOLL, UPPER CLASS

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Kimo | 58 | J. Nighbower | 4-1 |
| 2 | Nigger Doll | 56 | Geo. H. Rogers | 4-1 |
| 3 | Upper Class | 56 | Art Wilson | 5-1 |
| 4 | Medulla | 60 | A. Stephenson | 6-1 |
| 5 | Crack Up | 57 | P. J. Brown | 6-1 |
| 6 | Prince Bebe | 58 | [illegible] Rhine | 8-1 |
| 7 | Mister Ticker | 60 | M. J. Gavan | 8-1 |
| 8 | Darling | 56 | W. L. Bryant | 8-1 |

KIMO has a turn of early foot which insures it a lead into the first turn and from there home. NIGGER DOLL will be doing the same most of the way. UPPER CLASS is an outside possibility.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

CHINKO, CASALEADO, CAMPOS, PEPPY WAY

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Chinko | 54 | Paul Rooney | 3-1 |
| 2 | Casaleado Farm | 61 | C. A. Rhodes | 4-1 |
| 3 | Peppy Way | 57 | M. J. Gavan | 5-1 |
| 4 | Jeaninos | 60 | Don Kennell | 6-1 |
| 5 | Traffic Cop | 54 | Frank Lane | 8-1 |
| 6 | Princess Breeze | 61 | G. Tippold, Jr. | 8-1 |
| 7 | Lady Blondell | 58 | M. C. Sparks | 8-1 |
| 8 | Alla Pappe | 59 | O. R. Wolhaupf | 8-1 |

HENKO in last was a dandy and repeated here should give it the work. CASALEADO CAMPOS offers a serious threat if it breaks. PEPPY WAY should be in the money.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE

Second Elimination Steeplechase

Para Derby

JERRY HICKS, STANDARD CAR, RURAL CREEK

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Jerry Hicks | 61 | J. Nighbower | 3-1 |
| 2 | Standard Car | 57 | J. L. Goulet | 4-1 |
| 3 | Rural Creek | 59 | M. J. Sparks | 4-1 |
| 4 | General Carson | 57 | C. A. Rhodes | 5-1 |
| 5 | Gentle Lassy | 49 | G. Tippold, Jr. | 6-1 |
| 6 | Ramble B. | 57 | O. R. Wolhaupf | 8-1 |
| 7 | Nathan's Pepsi | 61 | W. B. Hall | 8-1 |
| 8 | Pawnee | 55 | Fred Sibert | 8-1 |

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

PERNA, JOSEPHINE GIPP, TOP TRAFFIC

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Perna | 56 | W. L. Bryant | 3-1 |
| 2 | Josephine Gipp | 50 | O. Dahlberg | 4-1 |
| 3 | Top Traffic | 67 | Frank Lane | 5-1 |
| 4 | Supply Officer | 64 | F. I. Brooks | 7-1 |
| 5 | Jackie Bell | 58 | A. L. Smart | 8-1 |
| 6 | Little Giant | 58 | J. L. Goulet | 8-1 |
| 7 | Justa Go By | 59 | Fred Sibert | 8-1 |
| 8 | Tue Tune | 51 | Paul Rooney | 8-1 |

In the last, PERNA was bumped on the way home and was fortunate to finish third. With clear sailing tonight, it should win. JOSEPHINE GIPP can make bother. TOP TRAFFIC might take it all.

Travis Dogs Heels Of Jimmy Foxx

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Everybody's talking about Jimmy Foxx and Earl Averill as candidates for the American League batting honors for 1938, but what about quiet Cecil Travis?

Clark Griffith, bushy-browed bombastic president of the Washington Senators, believes his gawky Georgia shortstop can turn the trick this season.

"Look where he is today," said Griffith. "He's seven points ahead of Averill and just one point behind Foxx, who is leading the league. Travis is hitting .349, which is quite a bit of hitting."

Travis never has batted less than .300 in any league, and that includes four years in the majors.

Griffith well remembers the day young Travis, then 20 years old, came into the Washington lineup. There was a lot of laughter as the rookie knee-l country boy timidly approached the plate.

"Luck," scuffed the doubters.

HIT FIVE STRAIGHT

But they changed their tune when Travis socked five straight [illegible]

If Travis has any fault as a ball player, it is that he's too retiring. He is such a personification of the bashful humpkin, that Griffith once offered him a bonus if he would get into a row, and an extra extra bonus if he would get into a fight. But it didn't work. Travis just kept on in his quiet way, hitting .300-plus.

By JACK CONWAY

IF HENRY Armstrong wins over Lou Ambers at the Polo Grounds, New York, tonight, colored boxers will hold five of the eight world's ring titles.

Joe Louis was the first colored heavyweight to become world's champion since Jack Johnson held the title.

John Henry Lewis added the world's light heavyweight championship to the list of ring honors held by colored boxers.

Mr. Boston

The remarkable Henry Armstrong, colored flash from California, then won the world's featherweight and welterweight championships. Armstrong is quite confident he will become a triple champion by defeating Ambers tonight.

Al Hostak of Seattle manages to hold on to the world's middleweight championship for the white race despite the ridiculous effort on the part of the New York Athletic Commission to strip him of his laurels because Freddy Steele, the man he knocked out, refuses to clash with Fred Apostoli in New York. The New York Athletic Commission at times forgets that it hasn't got jurisdiction over boxing in the other 47 states.

Ring titles are won and lost in the ring, and the easiest way for an athletic commission to cause the public to laugh at it is for it to try to set up champions at star chamber meetings. If one could do business that way, some athletic commission might decide to make Jimmy Foxx or Mickey Cochrane heavyweight boxing champion.

Sixto Escobar, Porto Rican boxer, is world's bantamweight champion, while the flyweight title was recently vacated by Benny Lynch of bonny Scotland when he was unable to make the required class weight.

New Talent Needed in Boxing

NEW TALENT is needed in boxing if interest is to be created in the various boxing classes. Certainly it will not be any help to boxing to have Armstrong holding three titles. It would be much better if there were three different title holders with numerous popular contenders barking at the heels of each ring king.

Armstrong will probably vacate his featherweight crown as he isn't able to retain his strength at 126 pounds. Henry admitted he was very weak the night he fought Petey Sarron for the title.

Armstrong could coast along as world's lightweight and welterweight champions. If the colored sensation gets past Ambers tonight, it does not look as if he would have any serious opposition in either the lightweight or the welterweight class for some time.

Garcia is an aggressive, two fisted puncher. He has a chance to knock out any man he meets. The Filipino had Ross on the floor twice in their bout in San Francisco. A single well directed sock would have enabled him to have stopped Ross during the last two rounds of their tussle.

Louis-Baer Bout Looks Certain

IT IS almost certain that the official signing for the Joe Louis-Max Baer world's heavyweight championship bout for September will take place this week. Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club has delayed the announcement on this match as he did not wish to take away anything from the ballyhoo of the Armstrong-Ambers tussle.

New York will be the scene of the Louis-Baer bout despite bids from San Francisco and other cities. The bout will draw between $400,000 and $500,000 in New York which is still a great deal of money.

Louis prefers keeping in action even though he will be obliged to give 75 per cent of his purses to the tax collectors. Joe attributes his knockout at the hands of Max Schmeling in their first bout to the fact he went into the tussle following a long layoff.

Louis didn't make the same mistake while preparing for the second Schmeling bout. He engaged in four matches inside of a year, and his punch was razor sharp when he collided with Der Max.

Baer has not fought since he defeated Tommy Farr in March, but insists he has kept in condition. Max declares he will beat Louis in a return bout, and has not cared to risk any tune up contests for fear he would meet with an injury which would deprive him of his opportunity to regain his lost championship.

Random Shots at Target

THE GLOVER A. C. is expected to stage weekly professional boxing shows during the coming indoor season at the quarters of the Irish American A. A. . . . Such a club will give young boxers an opportunity to display their fistic wares . . . It is likely that the Goodwin A. C. will secure quarters where it can stage some of its smaller shows . . . The Goodwin A. C. as in the past will conduct its major attractions in the Garden . . . The Irish-American A. A. will open its fall amateur boxing season at the Arena on September 26.

Fette Out, Erickson Faces G's

By WALTER KILEY

Few real tears are being shed over the failure of the Giants to improve their position on the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Despite a loss 5 to 4 victory over the Bees in the series opener at the Hive, the Terrymen still trail the Bucs by six and one-half games.

While there is better than a third of the year's schedule of games to be played out, the Pirates grow in stature daily while the Giants lose caste.

Dick Erickson

A comparison of the Pirates and Giants during their separate appearances in Boston during the past week lead to the conclusion that the Pittsburghers are the better rounded, strong in every position, with better hitting and fielding and greater and more effective pitching.

Casey Stengel, manager of the Bees, is one who wastes little sympathy on the poor fortune of the visitors. Any tears he sheds over their fate is of the crocodile variety.

While his Bees failed to take advantage of the excellent chance to knock the Giants down a peg in the opener it is his large ambition to turn the trick today and tomorrow.

Beset with injuries from early season, he now faces the temporary loss of Lou Fette, who strained a muscle of the right loin after his recent pitching masterpiece against the Pirates and who may be out for several days.

Elbie Fletcher is another who is being missed. His injured leg continues to bother him, and he may not see service before the Brooklyn series which opens Friday.

In the meanwhile Danny MacFayden has finally been beaten, losing his fourth game of the year, due to two bad innings, in each of which he hampered his own winning cause by laying low batters. Both of the victims turned to be run makers.

Richard Merriwell "Leif" Errickson gets a chance to show his wares against the Giants' Cliff Melton today. Despite his poor record, Stengel is still very bullish on Errickson and considers him a sure-fire bet to make the big league grade.

Mickey Collected

$126,000 in 3 Years

DETROIT, Aug. 10 (AP)—The management of the Detroit Tigers broke a precedent of 38 years standing the time the club has been in the American League by publicly announcing the salary it had paid one of its employes.

Issued without comment by Walter O. Briggs, Jr., treasurer and son of owner Walter O. Briggs, a statement disclosed that Gordon Stanley (Mickey) Cochrane, deposed manager, had earned $126,000 in the last three years.

According to the figures, which Briggs said were from officially audited records, Cochrane was paid $45,000 for 1936, the same amount for 1937 and $36,000 for 1938.

Cronin Bats in 16 Runs, Hits .412 on Western Trip

Cronin, in the past 12 games on the trials, has bashed the agate at a cool .412 clip. Right on his heels comes Ben Chapman with a .404 average for the same dozen games.

VOSMIK .321

There's quite a drop to the third man, but Joe Vosmik's .321 mark is very respectable, to say the least. Then comes James Emory Foxx with .320 figures and "Doc" Cramer with an average of .317.

Even Jimmy Tabor, the temporary third-sacker who has never seen Fenway Park, is in the charmed circle.

Joe Cronin

When he hit a grand-slam homer, among other things, as the Sox were slaughtering the A's 16 to 4, yesterday, the sensational young man from Minneapolis boosted his average to .310 for seven games.

And the runs the boys have manufactured!

Cronin chased home 16 in those 12 tilts, while Chapman rescued 15. Foxx, setting a dizzy pace for both leagues in this respect, brought in 11 to boost his total to 108.

At home or abroad, the most frightful nightmare in the circuit to opposing pitchers is this Red Sox batting order.

Ask Johnny Allen of the Indians. He shut the Crosinmen out for six innings in Cleveland last week. Long before the seventh frame was over, he was under the showers, and the Sox were still engaged in a six-run tally.

Ask Nelson Potter of the A's. This young man didn't allow a Sox to see first base during the first six innings of yesterday's game.

Tabor's four-run home run fixed him in a seven-run seventh. At the finish, Bill Harris, 38-year-old veteran from Buffalo, was winning his first American League game by a 12-run margin.

If the Sox had had pitching all season such as Harris flashed in his second start, they'd be so far out in front in the race at the moment that there'd be no catching them.

Youth will have its fling at flinging in the second game against the Macks this p. m. as Jim Bagby, Jr., the season's prize freshman find, steps out after his 11th triumph.

Camera Decides Again

WHILE THEIR respective countries are not on the best of terms, the ladies of Italy and France apparently saw no reason why they should be on the outs and staged a track meet. France won by a single point. Here is a camera finish of the 200-meter race, showing Signorina Testoni of Italy breaking the tape by an eyelash in front of her French rival.

McKechnie Wins $5000 Bonus

By Associated Press

Joe Louis has been eating too much fried chicken . . . Cochrane to Brooklyn? Stranger things have happened, particularly in Brooklyn.

You almost have to string along with Henry Armstrong tonight, but there may be a terrific surprise . . . Henry can't win forever and this may be the night he gets his lumps . . .

Comedian Al Jolson, who retains a rooting interest in Armstrong, has bet $1100 to $1000 the brown boy wins by a kayo . . . What, a tennis scandal coming up?

Yesterday's game with the Cubs sent the Reds over the 450,000 attendance mark for home games and wins good old Bill McKechnie a $5000 bonus . . . Here's a tip: Babe Ganzel, now doing a swell job at St. Paul, will be managing in the majors within three years.

Gunnar Barlund gets in from Finland tomorrow and probably will slug it out with Tommy Farr in September . . . Max Baer and Galento will clash later, then the two winners with Louis getting the survivor next June.

Pepper Martin hopes to take his Cardinal string band on tour this fall, with Buddy Hassett and Al Schacht as extra added attractions. Al gets into New York today for a one-day vacation . . . Jimmy Braddock will continue his career as a referee, with Timmins, Ont., as the next stop.

Hyp Igoe, veteran boxing writer, has been moved to a hospital with typhoid fever, and his friends are worried . . . How about Tony Baril, 50 years old, hurling a no-hitter in a semi-pro game at Galveston . . . The Boston Bees will have him in two weeks.

Prof. Paul Mickelson has gone to Wichita to mingle with the semi-pro baseballers and make a speech, and if the old boy is feeling up to snuff the baseballers will get an earful or two . . . Asked who was going to play first base on his soft ball team, Joe Louis said: "The All-American out—Joe Louis."

Why all the excitement about J. Smith Ferebee pusying 144 holes of golf in 15 hours at Chicago? . . . H. G. Willingham, an insurance agent, got a kick out of that . . . Back in 1927 he played 169 holes over the Fayetteville (N. C.) Country Club course in 13 hours and 50 minutes . . . Willingham started play at 5 a. m. and finished at 6:50 p. m. . . .

Patty Berg Widens Lead In Western

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (INS)—Freckled Patty Berg of Minneapolis gained ground on the rest of the field in the second round of the women's western golf tournament when she shot a 78 for a 36-hole total of 151.

Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., who seeks her fourth straight victory in the event, was trailing with a 36-hole score of 161. Other a 165 total.

Dizzy Transformed Into Rhodes Scholar

Can you, even in your wildest moments, imagine Dizzy Dean using such words as come-uppance, impugn, repercussion, crass character, or even hypocritical? As to his reference to the hero of that Roman legend, "Old Dix" doesn't know whether Horatius stood at a bridge or a bar. The "ghost writer" who penned "I was No Pop-Off" must have attempted to inveigle the baseball public into believing that Dizzy was a Rhodes Scholar. And that Was a "Corrigan" . . . Walter Brown, general manager of the Boston Garden and the Boston Arena, is in Montreal to attend the meeting of the Quebec Provincial Hockey League . . . Eddie Jeremiah, "Junie" Stubbs and Howie McHugh are driving up to the Quebec metropolis today to second their boss on all motions which pertain to Springfield, Providence and New Haven entering the Q. P. H. L. . . . Bill Terry, who is still smarting under the collar over the double defeat his Giants received from the Pirates on Sunday, anchored himself on the home plate end of his bench when yesterday's game with the Bees started, with his left arm resting on the rail, and didn't stir until Vince Di Maggio fouled out to end the contest . . . Terry has been pretty soundly and roundly panned by writers, but after seeing him autograph books and pieces of scraps for a crowd of kids yesterday while walking up Gaffney Street, he can't possibly be so tough as they say he is . . . I can't figure out why some of our better known chiselers haven't horned into the amateur tennis racket. There's a racket, within the law, with plenty of the old do-re-mi . . . All of Rhode Island is mourning the death of Dan Fairchild, popular Wannamoisett golfer, who held the state amateur title six times . . . Jimmy Cooney came up from Cranston, R. I., yesterday to watch brother John . . . "Chickie" Maloney, the Concord High School boy, has a great future in baseball, according to Casey Stengel, George Kelly and Jock Gnadow . . . If there's no baseball game within a couple of hundred miles of Hanover, N. H., on August 16, Tommy Keane, the home pro, will be a serious threat to win the New Hampshire open . . . Would you believe that Charlie Farrell, the movie star, was the only undergraduate Mickey Cochrane couldn't out-box at Boston University?—GRIMES.

B's Get $50,000 Rookie

In his first move to strengthen the Bees, President Bob Quinn today announced the purchase of Eddie Miller, Kansas City shortstop, for four players and an unannounced sum of cash believed to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Riddle is one of the four Bees involved and is already at Kansas City. Gil English is also included and he left this morning to join the American Association club.

There will be two more players selected for this 22-year-old star who will report next spring.

Eddie has 24 doubles, nine triples and 11 homers to his credit in addition to 10 stolen bases and 54 runs batted in.

Justo Suarez Passes Away

CORDOBA, Argentine, Aug. 10 (AP)—Justo Suarez, 29, noted Argentine lightweight boxer, died at 12:50 a. m. today of tuberculosis in a sanitarium where he had been under treatment.

Mrs. Fabyan Advances At Rye

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., and Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., led an advance of favorites today as quarter-final round brackets were completed in the women's singles division of the Eastern Grass Court Tennis championships.

Mrs. Palfrey disposed of Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., 6—1, 8—6, and Miss Bundy won from Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston, Mass., 6—3, 6—4.

Mrs. John Van Ryn, seeded fourth newind Alice Marble, Miss Bundy and mrs. Palfrey, defeated Eunice Dean of San Antonio, 6—3, 9—7, to reach the last eight along with Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France and Dorothy Workman of Rosemead, Cal.

Mme. Henrotin scored over Virginia Wolfenden, young San Francisco star, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3, in a match which had been interrupted by rain yesterday. Miss Workman, after drawing a second round default from Olga Kallos of Ridgefield, Ct., defeated Patricia Canning of Alameda, Cal., 6—2, 6—4.

Jersey Sellers Go on Strike

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 10 (INS)—Efforts to settle labor difficulties between ticket sellers at Roosevelt Stadium, home grounds of the Jersey Giants baseball team, were being conducted today.

Fourteen of the sellers walked out last night just before the double header between the Giants and Rochester. Start of the games was delayed a few minutes until emergency ticket sellers could be drafted. The sellers demand higher wages and shorter hours.

St. Augustines Hold Edge Over Roslindale

St. Augustines of South Boston are now just around the corner from the Park League finals as a result of pinning the second defeat in the semi finals last night on the Roslindale Town club at Healy field. The count now reads two wins for the Saints, one for Roslindale and one tie.

Tommy Bilodeau and Charley Horne got down to real business last night, each getting three hits and driving in practically all the runs for the Benson array. With this pair hitting in such style and with Cushing and Hazelton available for tonight's clash, the situation seems to favor the Southie entry, which was knocked out last year at this point.

MISS PINKHAM

However, the Townies will be in there all the way. They miss their star left hander, Pinkham, who is down the Cape. Eddie Conway must choose between the veteran Ted Galligan or Lefty Cassala for this tilt, but will send Frank Lucas in as relief if the game call for it.

In the other bracket, the Holy Name and Knitters have played tie games on the last two nights after the Roslindale boys took the opener last Friday by a 9-4 count. Last night, with Al Drottar going strong with a 2-1 lead, the game seemed all but tucked away for the Silk Sox. However, Burns doubled in Holy Name's eighth, advanced on a short passed ball and counted when Thompson hit a long fly to center.

Tonight Manager Johnny Deland will send the vet, Curt Fullerton to the mount at Fallon field, and will be opposed by Charley Wonoski for the Knitters. Neither has appeared to date in the semifinal series, but both turned in some nice work in the preliminary round.
